OUR ARMY BULLETIN—TUESDAY.

Fine Weather—False Rumors—Mud Disappearing—Movements of the Enemy.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Wednesday, March 8.

The following army bulletin for yesterday was received at this office to-day:

Left Wing Army of the Potomac, Tuesday, March 7—A. M.

The weather continues fine, and the nights are still bright with moonlight.

There is no news of importance from the limits of this army.

Rumors of a fight in front of this wing of the army were current at City Point, but it is needless to say they were without foundation.

It is surprising how rapidly the mud is disappearing. The roads are now quite passable, and decent.

The enemy are reported as having massed in front of the Second Corps, seemingly in anticipation of the move they are in such dread of.

GEORGE F. WILLIAMS.

REBEL REPORTS.

From the Richmond Whig, March 6.

The Danville (N. C.) Register says:

"The crisis of the war is rapidly approaching. In a short time a heavy and perhaps a decisive battle will be fought. Indeed, the more knowing persons are of opinion that Grant intends to commence a general engagement in a few days, by attacking Gen. Lee's right in the vicinity of Petersburgh.

On our side all the usual precautions have been taken for any emergency. We are assured that it does not enter into the plan of our General-in-Chief to abandon the capital. On the contrary, he means to hold it to the last, and will surrender it only when it becomes impossible to hold the city longer. For our part, we have no fear of Gen. Grant being repulsed whenever he chooses to make an attack.

As to Sherman, it is difficult to make out his programme. We suppose he will be governed by circumstances. Now that Charleston and Wilmington have been evacuated, and their garrisons set loose to operate in the field, it would seem that Johnston might collect quite a formidable force to check the raid of Sherman through Carolina. If Johnston can keep Sherman at bay, we need have no fear of Grant.

From the Richmond Dispatch, March. 6.

We are still without official news from any quarter. The usual quiet prevails upon the lines in this vicinity, though the return of good weather leads us to expect that the quiet will soon be broken. The roads in the country dry in a few days, and Grant is said to be waiting only for firm roads to make another attempt to seize the Southside Railroad.

Petersburgh, Sunday, March 5.

Profound quiet prevails along the lines in this vicinity. The mud is considered the deepest that has been known in this vicinity for fifty years. Consequently, the transportation of artillery and army wagons is impossible.

OUR ARMY CORRESPONDENCE.

Effects of the Rain—Terrible State of the Roads—Everything Quiet, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Left Wing, Army of the Potomac, Saturday, March 4, 1865—8 A. M.

The recent rain-storm which left us yesterday has made the roads almost impassable, and the general effects of the deluge that has afflicted us are visible in every direction. The troops generally remain very quiet, and within the limits of their camps.

A slight picket fire was kept up in front of a portion of the Second Corps line yesterday afternoon, caused by scouting parties sent out in search of discoveries. In other respects the lines have been very quiet.

Paymasters are busy paying off the troops, and Uncle Sam's green leaves are fast falling in the various camps. Sutlers, oyster men, photographers, and other hucksters are driving a brisk business.

Continuance of Bad Weather—Tremendous Gale—Sufferings of the Troops.

Left Wing Army of the Potomac, Saturday, March 5, 1865—8 A. M.

We are again suffering from the effects of the continued storm of rain and wind. The country is almost one vast swamp, and the roads are simply impassable. If it were not for the network of corduroy roads and the railroad, the army would find it difficult to obtain the necessary supplies.

The sufferings of the troops have been considerable, in consequence of the deluge of water and the heavy gale. Tents were demolished, whole camps inundated, and a general state of discomfort the result. The high wind that prevailed during the best part of yesterday, will, no doubt, dissipate the heavy clouds that hang over us at present, and we may look forward to a more settled state of the weather. At this moment, it is a consummation devoutly to be wished.

The prolonged bad weather enables large numbers of rebel deserters to come into our lines. They present a most woeful aspect, as they are drenched to the skin, and appear greatly the worse for the weather.

Sunshine and Fine Weather—Good Condition of the Army—Readiness to Move—Rumors, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Left Wing Army Potomac, Monday, March 6, 1865—8 A. M.

For the past twenty-four hours the sun has blessed us with his genial and cheering rays, and our skies have once more assumed the blue. White and fleecy clouds now roll athwart the horizon. The air is balmy and delightful. Under the combined influence of the warm sunshine and light winds, the mud is fast drying up.

Notwithstanding the severity of the recent storm, the health of the troops remains quite good. A few days of fine weather will restore the commands to all their pristine vigor.

At the present writing the Army of the Potomac was never in better condition for any approaching conflict that may be on the tapis. Confident and hopeful, earnest and courageous, this gallant army stands ready to fight and struggle for the mastery, with the calm consciousness that their efforts in the future will be blessed with success. They feel confident that the approaching campaign will be the last which they will be called on to participate in, and the evident close of the war cheers the gallant soldiers of this army to eclipse all former achievements.

Nothing but the state of the roads keeps this army inactive, not that I would intimate that a battle is imminent, but as the enemy seem to consider it a sure thing that we will assume the offensive, it would not surprise any one if they were gratified.

We have all sorts of rumors floating about, but no reliability can be placed upon them. On the occasion of the presentation of a flag to one of the brigades in the Fifth Corps, considerable cheering was indulged in. It was soon after rumored that a whole brigade of rebels had come in. So much for Dame Rumor.

GEO. F. WILLIAMS.

THE RIGHT WING.

Executions for Desertion to the Enemy—Arrival of Recruits—Management of the Military Railroads—Rebel Deserters.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Right Wing Army of the Potomac, Saturday, March 4, 1865.

Two men, named Anthony Raymond and Newell Jengle, both privates of the Forty-sixth New-York Regiment, suffered death yesterday, near the Peebles House, in pursuance of the sentence of a court-martial, for the crime of desertion to the enemy. These men were of the gang of deserters arrested last Fall, near Louisa Court-house, Kentucky, where they came into our lines, pretending to be Southern refugees, and asking to be sent North. It will, perhaps, be remembered that their arrest was effected through the instrumentality of an escaped Union prisoner, who had become their associate to elude pursuit, and thus discovered who they were and what were their plans. After getting into our lines he informed on them, and they were accordingly taken into custody and sent hither for identification and trial. All of them have, I believe, been convicted, and some ten or twelve have now suffered the extreme penalty of the law.

The two executed yesterday were attached to the First Division of the Second Army Corps, and the execution took place in the presence of the Division generally, while the regiment to which they belonged was paraded in full view of the scene. After the preliminary arrangements had been made, the prisoners were marched to the assigned position under an escort of twenty-four of their former comrades, who were detailed to carry the sentence into effect, and were there allowed time for a final act of devotion, in which they engaged with great apparent fervency, the chaplain of the regiment conducting the exercises and administering such consolation as the peculiar character of the circumstances rendered necessary.

On concluding their devotions, they were seated upon coffins prepared for their remains, and their faces concealed beneath white caps drawn over their heads and shutting out forever the scenes of earth and life. In the meantime the firing party of twelve men had been posted some twenty-five paces in their front, and at the word of command the sharp crack of twelve muskets rang upon the ear, and the doomed men were seen to fall back upon their coffins. One was killed instantly, but it was thought necessary to order the reserved file of six men to fire again at the other, although he was evidently unconscious. The sufferers were both young men, and they conducted themselves in a manner showing that they keenly appreciated their position, both in respect to the reputation they were leaving behind, and the fate awaiting them in the future.

A very large number of new recruits are arriving here almost daily, and amongst them I notice some regiments that have hitherto been doing guard duty about the Northern cities, and on railroads, &c. Two of these, (both of which arrived to-day,) are very strong regiments, and as they have been in the service for over a year, are in all probability well-drilled and efficient soldiers. It will, no doubt, prove much wiser to send such men to the front, and supply their places with new men, or with those whom severe service has rendered incompetent for active duty.

I ask leave to mention here, what seems to have escaped entirely the notice of newspaper correspondents with the army; that is, the management of the military railroad from City Point to the extreme southwestern limit of the camp. There is not a more constantly-used railroad in the country, nor one over which more persons travel; and although it was built hurriedly and abounds in short curves, heavy grades, trestle-work, and, in short, every characteristic that renders a road dangerous, it is very rare that an accident occurs, and I have never yet heard of but two lives being lost upon it.

I notice that the receipts of rebel deserters yesterday and last night have again increased to pretty nearly the figures averaged last week. Sixty-seven were reported yesterday, and upward of fifty this morning.

Lee's Army Expected to Take Advantage of the Wet Weather and Evacuate Richmond—A Rush on Adams' Express Office—Cannonading.

Right Wing Army of the Potomac, Sunday, March 5, 1865.

I find there are many here who seriously believe that Gen. Lee contemplates the early evacuation of Richmond, and that he will probably seize upon the present opportunity for carrying out that intention. They reason somewhat cogently that, as the roads are now in a condition to render it almost impossible for this army to follow him, he could take advantage of that circumstance, and, with the facilities afforded by his two remaining lines of railway communication, succeed not only in getting his army away, but in saving all, or nearly all, his military stores. Those who entertain this theory think it not unlikely that the sentiments expressed by the Richmond press, antagonistic to the evacuation of the capital city of their inchoate nation, are purposely assumed with a view to mislead our authorities until the move is accomplished. In support of their theory, they call attention to the fact that cars are constantly running on the Southside Railroad, and the whistle of the locomotives can be heard at all hours, night and day. It is plausible to suppose that, if evacuation is intended, it will be sought to consummate it while the present favorable circumstances continue; but from any facts known on this side, the entire theory must consist of mere speculation.

Since the Paymasters have arrived and commenced paying the troops, the office of Adams' Express Company, at City Point, has presented a lively and interesting scene. It is thronged almost constantly with officers and soldiers, anxious to send their money to loved ones at home.

With the exception of a slight cannonading last evening on the Sixth and Ninth Corps front, everything continues quiet. Deserters still flow into our lines in a steady stream, under the favoring circumstances of rainy weather and darkness, but they bring no news of interest. They were probably too intent on their project to escape to take much interest in passing events on the other side.

HENRY H. YOUNG.

The Maryland Senatorship.

Baltimore, Wednesday, March 8.

Hon. John A. J. Creswell, member of the late Congress from the First District, was nominated to-night by the Union caucus for United States Senator, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Gov. Hicks. This is equivalent to an election.

SHERIDAN'S VICTORY.

Confirmation of the Previous News.

Capture of a Large Number of Prisoners. Eight Guns and 100 Wagons.

Sheridan Still Following Up His Success.

Washington, Wednesday, March 8.

It is stated that information has been received from Winchester confirming the news brought into Gen. Grant's lines by deserters, of a victory achieved by Sheridan over Early in the Valley. The battle took place near Waynesboro', and resulted in the capture by Sheridan of 40 rebel officers, 1,300 men, 8 cannon, and over 100 wagons. The report does not give the date of the battle. Waynesboro is on the Central Railroad, at the west base of the Blue Ridge, about 15 miles from Staunton and 25 from Charlottesville.

FROM CHARLESTON.

Condition of the City—Reports From Sherman—The Negroes Enlisting.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Charleston, N. C., Sunday, Feb. 26, 1865.

In passing up the harbor to the City of Charleston, one who has been on Morris Island for the past two or three years, and witnessed the clouds of smoke, and heard the report of cannon proceeding from the batteries that constituted the rebel defences, cannot be otherwise than favorably impressed with the change that marks the present state of affairs. On Sullivan's Island particularly, where the rebels took so much pains to build numerous and strong fortifications, the reigning silence seems peculiarly odd. In contemplating this change, it is gratifying to know that it was brought about with such consumate skill and quiet ease. Often have we poor fellows on Morris Island dodged the ugly missiles that were hurled from Forts Moultrie, Beauregard, Bee, and a dozen other batteries on Sullivan's Island; but now we can leisurely pass them in close proximity, and examine them as long and minutely as we choose. The American flag floats in triumph over them all. It was a source of much pleasure to me to get a good sight at the walls of Sumter, which are hidden from view when looking from Cumming's Point. Of course, unlike the sea and the Morris Island fronts, the opposite sides of the work are not wholly battered down into a solid mass of loose masonry and earth, although they are well riddled by shots which have passed through the two walls. As yet, the magazine and bomb-proofs of Sumter have not been examined interiorly, but I understand that a thorough investigation will be made in a few days. Numerous wires have been observed running in every direction in the fort, and it is believed they have some ill-fated connection with the powder and other combustibles stored therein. The fort has been visited by several parties within the past week, but no one ventures to manipulate the mysterious wires. Fort Johnson, and the other works on James Island, are of the most formidable character, and are so located that it would have taken a tremendous force to deprive the rebels of them by an assault. The harbor itself seems to be clear of torpedoes, at any rate a search for those machines has resulted thus far in finding none. It is stated by citizens in town that a few months ago the rebel authorities directed four immense locomotive boilers to be filled with powder and sunk in different portions of the channel. At the time of the last naval attack on Sumter, the New Ironsides took a position directly over one of these boilers, but on account of some defect in the apparatus which was to ignite the powder, no explosion occurred. On the following night the rebels sent out a boats' crew to examine the cause of the failure, but they returned bringing the report that the boiler was not to be found. It is believed that the current, which is very strong and swift off Sumter, swept the boiler seaward. The exact spot where the remaining boilers are sunk is not known, but not the least fear is apprehended that they will ever do any damage. Nothing has been done as yet to dismantle any of the forts about the harbor. They remain nearly the same as they were when he took possession. The two 600-pounders which were mounted on the wharf batteries at Charlestown, and which were purposely exploded by the rebels before leaving the city, excite a great deal of attention and curiosity from all classes. Only one of the guns was ever fired with shot, and that one but once. The effect of the firing was such as to crack the piece near the breech. The damage was repaired by welding a band of iron over the fractured part, and when the rebels exploded the gun that part remained whole, while the portion between the trunion and the muzzle was blown into fragments. The guns were exploded by being filled with powder, sand and rock. The concussion was so great, the inhabitants say it was not unlike that following an earthquake. The houses in the immediate vicinity were completely shattered. The walls were crumbled, and the glass in the windows was shivered to powder. The marble steps and porches in front of the houses were broken into fine pieces, the chimneys tumbled down, and the doors and sashes bursted out. The man who fired the piece nearest James Island reports that, although he was several dozen yards in the rear, the force of the concussion knocked him down, and he lay in a senseless condition for a full five minutes. About three hundred of the shell intended for the 600-pounder guns are now piled up and scattered about in the citadel-square. A number of them encircle the base of the corner-stone which it was designed should form a portion of a monument to be erected to the memory of John C. Calhoun, but for some reason the work was never finished.

Since occupying the city our forces have not been idle. A large body of troops were sent out the other day to Sommerville, a town on the South Carolina Railroad, 22 miles distant from here. They simply occupied the town, and assured the people of their protection. A number of rebel prisoners were taken on the way, and forwarded to Gen. Schimmelfenning's headquarters.

To-day a naval expedition was sent up the Cooper River on a reconnoissance. They reached Georgetown without opposition. The enemy had evacuated that place, leaving the batteries and guns to fall into our possession. At this writing, the boats have not returned. Inasmuch as Sherman may possibly make Georgetown his next base, we may look upon that point as an important one. The only intelligence we have of Sherman comes through rebel sources. At last accounts he was making his way toward the coast. Since his departure from Savannah he has had a few skirmishes, but no heavy engagement. The people here are unanimous in the opinion that he can travel to Virginia and find none to dispute the way.

The citadel, arsenal, and some other public buildings, have, until the past two days, been guarded by colored troops. They are now guarded by the Third Rhode Island Artillery and one other regiment. Nearly all of the colored troops have been taken off of patrol duty and sent to the front, where they will doubtless render efficient service. As a natural consequence, the residents felt hurt at seeing their houses placed under the surveillance of colored soldiers who, perhaps, a short time previous, had labored as slaves for the inmates, but, at the same time, they had an opportunity of observing that the colored soldiers were slaves no longer.

Since my arrival in this city I have been assured by different parties that their colored servants would not leave them on any account, and that they had become so attached to their homes that no one could entice them away. Within the past twenty-four hours I have learned from a number of the same party, that their colored servants had taken "French leave." The fact is, the slaves in this city—or those who were formerly slaves—have become imbued with a spirit of freedom, and are determined to bear the yoke no longer. They begin to comprehend the old saying "that the laborer is worthy of his hire." From the very first day of the rebellion, there have lived in Charleston, men firm and true to the Union. Through evil and good report, reverses and successes, they have always stood on one side—the Union side. Those men are in the city to-day, and we take them by the hand and say, you have done your duty nobly and well. How they manage to meet together and talk over the events of the day, each one giving a free expression to his thoughts, and using his influence to counteract the evil designs of the rebels, is a matter which needs not be explained here. It is sufficient to know that they did not fail in their object. Of course we cannot expect to find all the inhabitants of Charleston enlisted in the cause of the Union. We meet rebels daily. We meet rebels who do not hesitate to declare themselves as such, notwithstanding they may be on a mission to the office of the Provost-Marshal for the purpose of asking him to send a guard to protect their property. It is strange how little some people will appreciate the efforts of those who try to render them a service. For four long years have the citizens of this place submitted themselves to the tyranny of fiends, and how any one of them can be otherwise than grateful to the men who liberated them is one of the mysteries of the times. As a redeeming circumstance, however, I will state that our soldiers have not been grossly insulted in the streets. The citizens are disposed to treat them respectfully at any rate.

An order recently issued by Post Commander Bennett, calling upon traders and others to open their stores and places of business, is already being acted upon by a large number. Merchants who have suspended business on account of the shelling of the city, are throwing open their stores and making preparations to increase their trade. Many of the stores in the lower part of the city that were damaged by the shells, are being repaired and refitted for occupancy. What is wanted here now is a good supply of all kinds of goods and merchandise. The people want provisions, and not a few of them have the means to pay for their purchases.

The sooner the port is thrown open for trade the better, for then hundreds of families who are now suffering for subsistence, not for the means to buy it, will be enabled to have their wants supplied. There is one thing which should not be delayed a single day, and that is the policing of the city. The streets are in a horribly filthy condition, and unless something be done to remedy this state of affairs, we cannot see how the Summer will pass without our having an epidemic of a fearful type. The negroes idling about the city could be very profitably employed in cleaning the streets.

Recruiting is going on briskly. The negroes appear to be very willing to enter the service and don the uniform of United States soldiers.

To-day Gen. Hatch relieves Gen. Schimmelfening in the command of the Northern District. Gen. Schimmelfening and the members of his staff have worked hard and faithfully in the performance of their duty since the fall of the city. The General said his troops should be the first to enter the city, and they were.

A national salute was fired by the navy, and the vessels gaily decorated with flags on the 22d inst.

Maj.-Gen. Gillmore came up from Hilton Head to-day. Several officers and a number of ladies were on the boat.

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

Raleigh Likely to be the Scene of the Final Battle—Large Force Concentrating at Newbern.

Newbern, Wednesday, March 1.

Intelligence from the North Carolina papers indicate that both sections are concentrating their forces in her borders for the final struggle. A Raleigh paper says that the people of that city will hear the guns of the great and last battle of the American rebellion, and that the traditionary ground of the old North State will be the common graveyard of State Rights and State lines, without which no attempt at secession could have been made. The existence of State lines will always be a sufficient pretext to prompt the local interest of one section to revolt against the Government, if the other sections refuse to sacrifice their local interest. All history demonstrates the fact that personal interest is paramount to love of country, and even life itself. Hence to make us one family, one people, and to obliterate these local dangers, we must abolish State lines, which will give us a central head—the magnet to which all local interest will be attracted; a republican Government, which will be the embodiment of free institutions; a country in which the people cannot run riot and plunge into extremes under the cloak of Democracy.

The Raleigh Progress says that the Federals are concentrating a force of 40,000 at Newbern, which will soon be ready to strike Gen. Lee's army in conjunction with Sherman's forces.

THE ASIATIC TELEGRAPH.

Commencement of Work in Northwestern America—Pioneer Expedition Sails for Sitka—The Wires will Soon Reach New-Westminster, British Columbia.

San Francisco, Tuesday March 7.

The United States steamer Shubric, Capt. Scammon, sailed to-day with Col. Bulckley and party of the Collins Overland Russian Telegraph Company, bound for Sitka, Russian America.

The Shubric touches at Victoria, Vancouver's Island, to land a working party to commence building at Fraser River.

Mr. Gamble, Superintendent of the California State Telegraph Company, went on the Shubric, and lands at Victoria, to finish a small gap in the wire, between Bellingham Bay and New-Westminster, British Columbia, on Fraser River.

The telegraph line will be working in two or three weeks between San Francisco and British Columbia.

From Albany.

It is understood that the following nominations by the Governor were confirmed by the Senate to-day:

C. W. Goddard, to be Captain of the Port, vice Archibald Hall.

Harbor-Masters.—J. Cashow, reappointed; Henry Hulst, reappointed; James M. Thompson, vice J. L. Taylor; N. P. Pond, vice A. D. Barber.

Canal Appraisers.—E. B. Brooks, vice A. B. Parmelee; Beman Brockway, vice F. Carroll.

Port-Wardens.—Chas. F. Burslow, vice J. V. Peck.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

NOMINATIONS.

The President communicated to the Senate to-day another batch of nominations. He has a few more which will be sent to-morrow. It will take the Senate several hours to dispose of those already before them. They expect to finish up all executive business by Saturday.

THE SENATE COMMITTEES.

The Senate standing committees for the coming year, reported to-day, give great satisfaction. They were arranged by Senators Harris, Foster, Grimes, Wade and Trumbull, who were appointed a special committee for that purpose.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

Washington, Wednesday, March 8.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The Senate has confirmed, among many others, the following nominations:

Lieut. George W. Doty, to be Commander in the navy on the retired list; Lieut.-Commanders H. N. T. Arnold, Thomas Patterson, Wm. N. Jeffers, Edward Simpson and Wm. G. Temple, to be Commanders in the navy, on the active list; Asahel C. Geer, to be Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifteenth District, New-York; Caleb Cooke, of Massachusetts, to be Consul at Mozambique; Edward D. Neill, of Minnesota, to be Secretary to the President to sign patents; C. Victor de Land, of Michigan, to be Consul at Cadiz; and E. T. Sanford, of Maine, to be Consul at Atchee, for China.

ARKANSAS.

Notwithstanding the refusal of the Senate at the late session to recognize Arkansas by the admission of her Senators, they confirmed the nomination of United States Attorneys and Marshals for the Judicial Districts of that State.

DESERTERS FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

One hundred and twenty deserters, the greater part from North Carolina, arrived here to-day. A large number are at City Point, awaiting transportation North.

MORE NOMINATIONS.

The President sent to the Senate to-day a large number of military, naval and other nominations, including Freeman Clark as Comptroller of the Currency; and they were referred to their appropriate committees.

SUPREME COURT BUSINESS.

The Supreme Court to-day held under advisement, and continued until the next term, the steamship Bermuda case. She was a British vessel, and was captured off the coast of Great Abaca Island, one of Bahamas, and, together with her cargo, contraband of war, was condemned on the ground that she was property of enemies of the United States, and was proceeding to a blockaded port. The plaintiff deny the latter, alleging that she was bound to Nassau, and was captured in British waters. Important questions are involved in the decision.

THE CANADIAN PASSPORTS.

Mutual explanations have taken place between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States, which have resulted in a rescinding of the passport order of the 17th of last December, so far as relates to the Province of Canada, and in an understanding that under present circumstances and notwithstanding the notice lately given in that respect the naval force of the United States upon the upper lakes, shall be the same which was stipulated by the treaty of April, 1817.

The following is the proclamation on the subject of passports:

Whereas, pursuant to the order of the President of the United States, directions were issued from this Department under date of the 17th of December, 1864, requiring passports from all travelers entering the United States except immigrant passengers directly entering an American port from a foreign country; but whereas information has recently been received which affords reasonable grounds to expect that Her Britannic Majesty's Government and the executive and legislative branches of the Government of Canada have taken, and will continue to take, such steps as may be looked for from a friendly neighbor, and will be effectual toward preventing hostile invasions from Canadian territory into the United States. The President directs that from and after this date the order above referred to requiring passports, shall be modified, and so much thereof as relates to persons entering this country from Canada shall be rescinded, saving and reserving the order in all other respects in full force.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD.

THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

SENATE—EXTRA SESSION.

Washington, Wednesday, March 8.

COMMITTEE ON MINES.

On motion of Mr. Anthony, a Committee of Mines and Mining was added to the Standing Committees of the Senate.

ELECTION OF A CHAPLAIN.

Mr. Foot submitted an order, which was agreed to, that the Senate will, to-morrow, proceed to the election of a Chaplain.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. Anthony moved that the Senate proceed to the election of the Standing Committees, which was agreed to, and the process by ballot dispensed with. He submitted the following list, which was adopted:

Foreign Relations—Mr. Sumner, Chairman; Messrs. Doolittle, Harris, Foot, Wade, Davis and Johnson.

Finance—Mr. Fessenden, Chairman; Messrs. Sherman, Howe, Cowan, Van Winkle, Henderson and Guthrie.

Commerce—Mr. Chandler, Chairman; Messrs. Morrill, Morgan, Sprague, Lane of Kansas, Nesmith and Doolittle.

Manufactures—Mr. Sprague, Chairman; Messrs. Dixon, Pomeroy, Riddle and Wright.

Agriculture—Mr. Sherman, Chairman; Messrs. Lane, Harlan, Wilson and Guthrie.

Military Affairs and the Militia—Mr. Wilson, Chairman; Messrs. Lane of Indiana, Howard, Nesmith, Morgan, Clark and Brown.

Naval Affairs—Mr. Grimes, Chairman; Messrs. Anthony, Willey, Ramsey, Cragin, Nye and Hendricks.

Judiciary—Mr. Trumbull, Chairman; Messrs. Harris, Collamer, Sherman, Johnson, Williams and Hendricks.

Post Office and Post Roads—Mr. Collamer, Chairman; Messrs. Dixon, Ramsey, Conness, Buckalew, Pomeroy and Van Winkle.

Public Lands—Mr. Harlan, Chairman; Messrs. Pomeroy, Morrill, Sprague, Stewart, Hendricks and Wright.

Private Land Claims—Mr. Harris, Chairman; Messrs. Sumner, Howard, Williams and Riddle.

Indian Affairs—Mr. Doolittle, Chairman; Messrs. Lane of Kansas, Harlan, Nesmith, Foot, Trumbull and Buckalew.

Pensions—Mr. Foster, Chairman; Messrs. Lane of Indiana, Van Winkle, Foot, Stewart, Yates and Buckalew.

Revolutionary Claims—Mr. Ramsey, Chairman; Messrs Chandler, Wilson, Nesmith and Wright.

Claims.—Mr. Clark, Chairman; Messrs. Howe, Pomeroy, Anthony, Williams, Norton and Davis.

District of Columbia.—Mr. Dixon, Chairman; Messrs. Morrill, Wade, Willey, Henderson, Yates and Riddle.

Patents and the Patent Office.—Mr. Cowan, Chairman; Messrs. Lane, of Indiana, Clark, Norton and Guthrie.

Public Buildings and Grounds.—Mr. Foot, Chairman; Messrs. Brown, Trumbull, Grimes and Hendricks.

Territories.—Mr. Wade, Chairman; Messrs. Lane, of Kansas, Yates, Nye, Norton, Cragin and Davis.

Pacific Railroad.—Mr. Howard, Chairman; Messrs. Johnson, Harlan, Sherman, Morgan, Conness, Brown, Yates and Cragin.

To Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate.—Mr. Morrill, Chairman; Messrs. Ramsay and Henderson.

Engrossed Bills.—Mr. Lane of Indiana, Chairman; Messrs. Sumner and Willey.

On Mines and Mining.—Mr. Conness, Chairman; Messrs. Stewart, Chandler, Morgan, Fessenden, Buckalew and Guthrie.

Joint Committee on Printing on the part of the Senate.—Mr. Anthony, Chairman; Messrs. Brown and Riddle.

Joint Committee on Enrolled Bills on the part of the Senate.—Mr. Howe, Chairman; Messrs. Cowan and Nye.

Joint Committee on the Library on the part of the Senate.—Mr. Collamer, Chairman; Messrs. Johnson and Howard.

THE ARKANSAS SEATS.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the Arkansas question, Mr. Howard having objected to the reception of the credentials of W. D. Snow, claiming a seat from that State.

Mr. Davis addressed the Senate against the admission of Mr. Snow to a seat.

Several messages were received from the President.

MOTION FOR EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Mr. Sumner moved that the Senate go into executive session.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, said he would first like to have a vote on the pending question.

Mr. Grimes suggested that the Senate go into executive session and refer the communication from the President. They could then in open session resume the consideration of the Arkansas question.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, acquiesced in the suggestion.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

The Senate then went into secret session, and, after a short time spent therein, the doors were reopened, when

THE ARKANSAS CASE.

Mr. Davis resumed his remarks, saying that though the Supreme Court differed on some points, they unanimously agreed that this being a civil war, the United States is entitled to all and every belligerent right, as if a foreign war existed between separate and independent nations. The President, Congress and Supreme Court have recognized this to be a war in which belligerent rights attach to the United States. This led him to the conclusion that the applicant for a seat coming from the insurrectionary State of Arkansas, which, by the President's proclamation, the acts of Congress and the decision of the Supreme Court, was declared to be a portion of the party to the civil war, together with every resident of Arkansas, is, by the law of nations and our own, an alien enemy to the Government of the United States and the inhabitants thereof. Was this applicant more entitled to a seat than would be Robert Toombs from Georgia, should the latter present credentials from that State? This would be so unauthorized and contrary to right, that there would not be a solitary dissenting voice in rejecting the application.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, in reply, said the Executive Department and the Senate had recognized the State of Arkansas by appointing United States Judges, Attorneys and Marshals.

Mr. Davis said his position was this—Arkansas, by the President's Proclamation and the acts of Congress, is declared to be in a state of insurrection, and to remove her from that position, the same authorities must formally declare that she is not in a state of insurrection, but in amnesty with the United States, and therefore entitled to be treated as a State in the Union. No such action as that had taken place, and therefore Arkansas is still a State in rebellion.

Mr. Trumbull said he did not see any difficulty in receiving any respectable paper, as thereby the Senate did not commit itself to the object proposed to be accomplished.

Mr. Sumner said there were three points which might severally be decided. First: to refuse to receive the credenticls. Second; to receive and lay them on the table. Third: to receive and refer them. He was free to say he was completely indifferent as to the course the Senate would take. But a refusal to receive them has this result. It is our duty when the public demands, to see that the treasury is not needlessly exposed to drafts. It was notorious that when claimants present themselves here, they, through their next friend, like the Senator from Kansas, succeed in drawing from the treasury in the shape of compensation and mileage, which, as with case of Arkansas, would amount to a considerable sum.

Mr. Lane replied that when he himself came here as a claimant in 1856, to represent the Free State organization under the Topeka Convention, his credentials were received by the Pro-Slavery Democratic Senate, and although he was not admitted to a seat here, he did not follow up his application by asking for pay and mileage.

Mr. Sumner—We know the Senator to be an honorable man, and that he represented a great cause, which did not suffer in his hands.

Mr. Lane—That cause originated and gave strength and character to the Republican party, and led to the overthrow of the Pro-Slavery organization of the country; and now, as a politician, I notify the Senator that if the heresy is to be insisted on that traitors are to be consulted in reconstructing States, and if it be insisted that the insurrectionary States are outside the Union, my opinion is our party will be overthrown, just as the Pro-Slavery party was overthrown, by the Free State party, in 1856.

Mr. Sumner said he was not insensible to the cause the Senator at that time represented, nor was he insensible to the rights of loyal citizens anywhere. But the Senator had no patent right to sensibility. This was not the time for the discussion. Sufficient unto the day was the evil thereof. He had thought it to be his duty to suggest that the Senate put its foot on this matter of mileage and compensation. He referred to the fact that the mileage of two Senators from Louisiana and two from Arkansas would be about $8,000.

Mr. Lane said there was another applicant to be included.

Mr. Sumner replied—Then still more will be drawn from the treasury. He appealed to Mr. Howard to withdraw his objection to the reception of the credentials and allow them to go to the Committee on the Judiciary, with the understanding that they will undergo examination.

Mr. Howard said, if he understood the question, the Senate ought not to recommend the credentials, because the so-called State of Arkansas did not exist in law or in fact. He, however, would withdraw his objection.

Mr. Sumner wished to offer some instructions to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Lane objected.

The credentials were then referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. Sumner then asked the reference of his resolution, which was read for information, as follows:

Resolved, That when a State has been declared to be in insurrection no person be recognized as Senator from such State, or as claimant of a seat as Senator from such State, until after the occurrence of three several conditions: First—the cessation of all armed hostility to the United States within the limits of such States; secondly, the adoption by such State of a Constitution Republican in form, and not repugnant to the Constitution and laws of the United States, and thirdly, an act of Congress, declaring that the people of such State are entitled to representment in the Congress of the United States.

Mr. Lane objected to the consideration of the resolution, therefore it went over.

The chair laid before the Senate a message from the President, inclosing a letter from the Secretary of State. The Senate had requested the President to return to them a joint resolution prohibiting the payment of money to land grand railroads, and which had been presented to the President for his approval by mistake, but from which he withheld his signature. The official reply to the Senate's request is in substance as follows: That the right of either House at a subsequent Congress to recall any bill or resolution may be regarded as questionable under the Act of 1783, which makes no provision for any case similar to that under consideration. The law requires copies and originals of all documents to be filed in the State Department when not otherwise provided for. To keep such papers rather than return them to the Senate has been the uniform practice from the foundation of the Government.

Mr. Clark said the President had acted wisely in this matter.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, offered a resolution to pay the claimants of seats from Arkansas and Louisiana. It was referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

On motion of Mr. Wade, the Senate adjourned.

The Ice Embargo at Havre de Grace.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Harrisburgh, Penn.; Wednesday, March 8.

The ice embargo at Havre de Grace still continues, with a very uncertain prospect of breaking up. The travel is all turning over the Northern Central Road via Harrisburgh and the Allentown route.

An immense train of delayed passengers arrived here from Baltimore at 2 P. M., many of whom left Washington Monday and Tuesday. They make a connection via Allentown but none via Philadelphia. Many Congressmen were aboard, and Camden and Amboy is at a discount.

Susquehanna River Navigation.

Baltimore, Wednesday, March 8.

Travel northward is still obstructed by ice in the Susquehanna River. We have reports of considerable damage along the river in the vicinity of Columbia, and other points, but no particulars. The ice is gorged below Havre de Grace, and there is no immediate prospect of the railroad ferry-boat being able to cross. About Port Deposit, the river is comparatively full, but the water is very high. Parties have been able to cross there to-day in small boats. The heavy rain this evening and the warm atmosphere will, no doubt, soon force the ice out below, and remove the present difficulty.

The Seven-Thirties.

Philadelphia, Wednesday, March 8.

Jay Cooke reports the sale of seven-thirties to-day at $3,056,000, including $100,000 each from Cincinnati and Cleveland, and $300,000 from New-York. There were over 2,600 individual subscriptions.

THE BORDER STATES--AFTER THE WAR.

Letters on the Business Aspects, Social and Political Condition and General Prospects of the Border States of the Southwest.

LETTER FIRST.

"THE PAN-HANDLE" OF VIRGINIA—PHYSICAL FORMATION—PUBLIC OPINION AND RETURNING LOYALTY—BETHANY COLLEGE.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

LA GRANGE, Ohio, Wednesday, Feb. 22, 1865.

The past two days I have spent in Brook County, Virginia, lying opposite, and lying well up in that prong usually designated the "Pan-handle." It is a region well worthy of study at this moment. Sandwiched between Pennsylvania and Ohio, it has all the physical characteristics and some of the moral characteristics of both. Toward the river, as every one knows, the country presents a chain of hills, usually from 250 to 400 feet high, their faces cut with numerous ravines, and a river or creek having hewn a passage through every few miles. Toward the interior the country rises gradually, though not into an even plateau, as might be expected; but into steep and high hills, in some cases as beautifully rounded up to their summits as if they had been turned in a lathe; more commonly they consist of long, steep, rugged ranges, as crooked as the original Cobra himself. In Summer, I take it, nothing could be more gracefully picturesque than those hills, especially when their bases are washed by the numerous streams which wind among the hills and drop into the Ohio. There is just woodland enough to add to the effect, though not sufficient to make the picture as sombre as many parts of the country further north. Most of the hills are nearly bare up to their summits, and many of these are under cultivation at the height of more than 400 feet above the river, yielding fifty, sixty, or even seventy-five bushels of corn to the acre.

To this beauty of landscape is added great fertility of soil, wherever susceptible of cultivation. It consists of layers of clayey shale, sandstone, limestone and coal. The last-named crops out abundantly on the river side, and along the ravines and ridges as one goes into the interior. One or two of those beds are visible to the eye above the water courses; but I learn that on boring lower down, to the depth of about 200 feet, coal of a most excellent quality is obtained, it being nearly pure carbon, and very well adapted to the manufacture of pig iron, the upper beds having a considerable proportion of sulphur in them. But for ordinary domestic uses, the possessor of a twenty-acre lot is morally certain to be able to strike the black diamonds within a few feet of the surface. The article now sells for eight or ten cents per bushel, or twice its former price. Limestone is sufficiently abundant to fertilize the soil and render the country capable of furnishing immense quantities of dairy products.

At present, the inhabitants turn their attention largely to the raising of sheep. For twenty years the farmers of this portion of Ohio have been going into this branch of agricultural industry; but those on the Virginia side were not quite so ready to take hold of it. The war, by reducing the supply of labor and greatly enhancing the demand for wool, has imparted a decided stimulus to wool growing in West Virginia, whose people are returning to the pastoral State, so often sung by bards of the past century as the golden age of innocence. Whether a pastoral life is or is not so very guileless and unselfish, it is undoubtedly true that flocks of sheep feeding on a hillside add much to the beauty of the scene and increase the fertility of the soil.

The inhabitants boast that no more healthy region exists than this part of Virginia. There are no stagnant waters or swamps to be found. The principal stream, (Buffalo Creek,) in passing four miles of air-line, performs a journey of twenty miles, and falls nearly 200 feet. I leave its brawling rapids and falls, its insinuosities and loops to the imagination of your readers. No fevers and agues are known in that part of the country, and the "oldest inhabitants" had reached maturity when this country was in its earliest infancy.

Land, before the war, ranged in price from $40 to $70 per acre; at present from $70 to $100, according to improvements and situation. But the oil mania has just begun to infect the farmers, though some borings were made unsuccessfully four or five years ago. It appears that certain persons have been out "prospecting" from the East, and offered to either purchase or lease lands, the which has made the juveniles look a good deal more brightly, in hopes that "Dad may strike ile." With the return of Spring I shall expect to see a goodly number of attempts made to pass in the direction of China, or the earth's centre. At present the highways are so muddy that it would be almost impossible to accomplish much.

The villages on the Virginia shore, as well as the dirt-roads, are far from being models of neatness. Wellsburgh is an old town, having been founded long before Wheeling. It has probably a population of 1,000 persons. One-half of the houses are substantial and comfortable; the rest are poor, and there is an untidy appearance about the place that speaks ill for the public spirit of the people. Hardly a road or sidewalk is paved, though series of idle fellows are constantly seen loitering at the corners or in the stores. But in truth many of the settlements on this side of the river are not a whit better, and in some the slovenliness is such as I could hardly have expected to find on this side of the Atlantic, and hardly to be exceeded anywhere. The river towns are all greatly in need of reform.

Bethany, the seat of Bethany College, and the home of the celebrated ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, professor, preacher, author, controversialist, and recognized leader of a denomination of Christians, who number probably 300,000 members, is seven miles by road from the river. It has grown up altogether under the auspices of the college, and contains perhaps fifty houses. A few of these are spacious, and even elegant; several are comfortable, but quite as many are shabby. Indeed, the surroundings are exceedingly slovenly for a locality where good taste ought to be expected as the growth of sound learning. The people, as far as I had opportunity of observing, are kind, genial, intelligent and orderly, crime being scarcely known. Not a few of them are well read and acute thinkers, under the teachings of the eminent founder of the institution there; but it is not the first instance on record where learning has flourished side by side with dirty streets, and where a community of theologians have been too indolent to pave their sidewalks. Of the two evils I would as soon stick in the mud of a metaphysical, or even a theological problem as in the mire of mother earth above the ankles, having to call upon Jove or Hercules for the help that the settlers should furnish.

The college is beautifully situated on the shoulder of a hill overlooking the graceful Buffalo, beyond which arises an amphitheatre of hills. As rebuilt (the former edifice having been burned down a few years ago,) it is about 300 feet long, with one wing to be added, and a portion of the present edifice to be finished inside. It has a good library, and a philosophical apparatus, also an able and accomplished corps of professors, the general management devolving upon Prof. PENDLETON, though Mr. CAMPBELL retains the nominal position of President of the institution. About $15,000 are needed to complete the structure. When finished, it will be a very beautiful as well as a complete school of learning. The rates charged for boarding and tuition are quite moderate considering the times, and no more desirable place exists as respects the health and the morals of students.

Bethany College suffered seriously at the outbreak of the war. The prevailing sentiment of that neighborhood, of course, is staunchly loyal, but a considerable number of its students coming from the South caught the infection of State's rights and left for the tented field. A few have since come back, "sadder" if not wiser boys—some of them minus an arm, and one lacking the heel. As represented to me they have all taken the oath of allegiance; though not a few express the wish that DAVIS and LEE may yet succeed. But the Union spirit among the "studs" is on the whole in a healthy condition; and events are rapidly making that seat of learning as healthy politically as any to be found. I do not give credit to the rumor that many of the Hotspurs are still in the habit of going about with pistols and bowie-knives concealed on their persons; but if any are so blood-thirsty or timid as to act in this manner, I would respectfully suggest that they be set to cleaning the streets and paving the side-walks of Bethany.

The number of students is now about 90 and on the increase.

Mr. CAMPBELL, or "the Bishop," as he is usually termed, is in his [illegible] year, enjoying robust health and unusually buoyant spirits for a person at his advanced age. "His eye is not dimmed, nor his natural force abated" in any respect except one. He and his friends complain that his memory has recently given way to such an extent that he not unfrequently preaches from the same text and in substance the same discourse two Sundays in succession. It will not, I trust, be considered an intrusion upon privacy to mention a most curious psychological fact in connection with this. For many years Mr. CAMPBELL had been a close student of the scenery, &c., of the Orient, though never able to behold it. He has now, however, the belief that he actually visited the island of Cyprus, Palestine, Egypt, &c., and in the course of conversation, will immediately set about describing the people, the country, cities, &c., as if from actual observation. While thus engaged, a haziness will seemingly all at once come over his mind, when he claps his hand upon his forehead, complains of a cold affecting him in that part, and suspends his remarks, returning to them afresh after a time, as if to complete the narrative.

There is a feeling of painfulness in thus witnessing the intellect of one of the world's master spirits giving way, but happily it is unaccompanied with pain on his part, either mental or physical. Probably no person at his age enjoys life better than he, whether as viewed from the stand-point of the present, the past, or the future.

WEDNESDAY, March 8—P. M.

There was continued firmness to-day in the Government Stocks, the 5-20s (old) leaving off 111⅝, and the 10-40s 97⅜ ⅌ cent.—the latter ex dividend. The subscriptions to the Popular Loan, 7.30 ⅌ Cents, are going on at the rate of $3,000,000 ⅌ day. Some heavy transactions took place to-day in the way of exchanging the old issue of 5-20s, which are wanted for Europe, for the next issue at a lower cost by 1@1¼ ⅌ cent., and for the 10-40s. In this way alone could the large foreign demand for the old 5-20s be supplied without exciting a too rapid rise. Our own people like the new issue quite as well as the old, if not better, as an investment, but the orders from abroad all run upon the original five hundred million Loan of 1862.

There was a better feeling in the Railways this morning, and some appearance of strength was shown on New-York Central, Michigan Southern and Hudson River, the latter on account of the half-yearly dividend of 5 ⅌ cent. declared last night; but before 2 o'clock the turn of the market was downward, and at the Second Board there was a renewed pressure to sell nearly all the New-York and Western lines at lower figures.

Notwithstanding the disturbance since last week in Railway Shares, and the dullness in the Gold Speculation, (which increases the trouble and cost of carrying Gold), the market for Money, to-day, was, in the main, quite easy to the Brokers, at 7 ⅌ cent.

The Gold Room fell below 197 ⅌ cent. this afternoon, after a dull movement through the day at 197½@197 ⅌ cent. Exchange on London, for Gold, was done at the close of the mail for the China, below 108 ⅌ cent. for Bankers' signatures. The amount drawn against United States 5-20s was large, and no effort was made by the standard Banking firms to hold the market to the previous quotation of 108¼@108½. Their own bills were sold, second-hand, in the Street, at 107½@107¾ ⅌ cent. The Government has now over 20,000 bales of the captured Savannah cotton at the Quarantine Public Stores, Staten Island, ready for sale to third parties, or direct shipment to England on Treasury account. There is a further considerable amount yet to arrive, but the new Secretary of the Treasury may not deem it advisable to delay the export movement of the large receipts already in hand at New-York, awaiting his instructions. The present Currency value of the Cotton already landed is $6,500,000 or $7,000,000, equal to $3,250,000 or $3,500,000 in Gold, to be drawn for on England, or returned in Gold Coin by the Government Bankers in London. And this value may suffer a serious decline from further delay, as it has already suffered by the official circumlocution of transferring the Cotton from Savannah to New-York.

The arrivals of Government Cotton since Monday, are 9,000 bales, and the receipts by rail, &c., of other Cotton, 3,000 bales.

The following quotations were made at 4 o'clock, the Share list generally depressed in prices, but not so much anxiety as at the Second Board to follow prices down. Gold 196½@⅜.

NEW SKIRT.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE AGE IN HOOP-SKIRTS.

J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY (late J. I. & J. O. West), SOLE PROPRIETORS AND MANUFACTURERS, No. 97 CHAMBERS and Nos. 79 and 81 Reade-st., New-York.

THIS INVENTION consists of DUPLEX (or two) ELLIPTIC Steel Springs, ingeniously BRAIDED, TIGHTLY and FIRMLY together, EDGE to EDGE, making the TOUGHEST, most FLEXIBLE, ELASTIC and DURABLE SPRING ever used. They seldom BEND or BREAK, like the single springs, and consequently preserve their PERFECT and BEAUTIFUL SHAPE TWICE as LONG as any other Skirt.

THE WONDERFUL FLEXIBILITY and great COMFORT and PLEASURE to any LADY WEARING the DUPLEX ELLIPTIC SKIRT will be experienced particularly in all CROWDED ASSEMBLIES, OPERA, CARRIAGE, RAILROAD-CARS, CHURCH-PEWS, ARM-CHAIRS, for PROMENADE and HOUSE-DRESS, as the SKIRT can be FOLDED when in use, to OCCUPY a small place as easily and conveniently as a SILK or MUSLIN DRESS.

A LADY having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the DUPLEX ELLIPTIC SPRING SKIRT for a SINGLE DAY, will never afterward willingly dispense with the use of them. FOR CHILDREN, MISSES and YOUNG LADIES are superior to all others.

THEY are the best QUALITY in every part, and UNQUESTIONABLY the LIGHTEST, most DESIRABLE, COMFORTABLE and ECONOMICAL SKIRT ever made. FOR SALE in all FIRST-CLASS STORES in THIS CITY and throughout the UNITED STATES, HAVANA DE CUBA, MEXICO, SOUTH AMERICA and the WEST INDIES.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS.—OFFICE OF the Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, No 23 Chambers-st., New-York, January 7, 1865.

Notice is hereby given that the Assessment Rolls of the real and personal estate of the City and County of New-York, for 1865, will be open for inspection and review from and after MONDAY, January 9, 1865, and will remain open till the 30th day of April, 1865, for the correction of errors and the equalization of the assessments of the aforesaid real and personal estate of the City and County of New-York. All persons believing themselves to be aggrieved must make application to the Commissioners during the period above-mentioned, in order to obtain the relief provided by law. If such application be made in relation to the assessed valuation of the real estate, it must be made in writing, stating the ground of objection thereto, and thereupon the Commissioners shall examine into the complaint, and if in their judgment, the assessment is erroneous, they shall cause the same to be corrected. If such application be made in relation to the assessed valuation of the personal estate, the applicant shall be examined under oath by said Commissioners, who shall be authorized to administer such oath, and if, in his or their judgment, the assessment is erroneous, they shall cause the same to be corrected, and fix the amount of such assessment as they may believe to be just, and declare their decision thereon within thirty days after such application shall have been made to them. No reduction shall be made by the Board of Supervisors of any assessment on real or personal estate imposed under this act, unless it shall appear, under oath or affirmation, that the party aggrieved was unable to attend within the period prescribed for the correction of taxes, by reason of sickness or absence from the city.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Information has been received at Washington, from Winchester, which confirms the previous news of Sheridan's victory over Early. The battle took place at Waynesboro, and Sheridan, when last heard from, had captured a large number of prisoners, eight guns and many wagons, and was still pursuing the flying enemy.

Advices from the Army of the Potomac represent that the weather is fine and the mud pretty much dried away. The entire force is in excellent condition, and ready at the tap of the drum for any enterprise to which they may be called. There are, of course, constantly recurring rumors of movements by the enemy, and one by one all such rumors prove groundless, being, in most instances the shadows of what the inventors think the rebels most likely to attempt in their present extremity. The evacuation of Richmond is a favorite theme of speculation, but it is speculation only. The most welcome visitors to our camps are the Paymasters, who are now disbursing currency to the brave boys.

Richmond papers of March 6 contain no military news from North Carolina or Virginia. The Enquirer says: "The country turns in disgust from Congress; for four months it has sat in Richmond, and, day after day, witnessed the military strength of the Confederacy dwindling away, and, though Lee has appealed to it and implored it to use the great military strength of the negroes for defense of our country, yet to this date of the session it has wholly failed, and refused to adopt this measure for the salvation of the country." In the rebel Congress, a resolution of the General Assembly of North Carolina, protesting against the arming of the slaves in any emergency, without the consent of the States, was presented. A bill was passed in the rebel House to form volunteer organizations out of such persons as are not liable to military duty.

The arrival of Maj.-Gen. Washburn at Memphis, to take command of the district, seems to have caused a glow of pleasurable excitement throughout the city, and to have called forth expressions of gratulation from both sexes. The people of Vicksburgh are said to have regrets at the departure of the General, whose administration was no less popular in that city than in Memphis. His staff will be composed of Major W. H. Morgan, Assistant Adjutant-General; Lieut. Charles H. Townsend, Twentieth Wisconsin Infantry, A. D. C.; Lieut. J. Burnett, Thirty-third Missouri Infantry, A. D. C. Headquarters will be the same as occupied by late District Commander, Brig.-Gen. S. S. Roberts.

Orders were received from Gen. Fry yesterday to commence the draft in this city on Wednesday next, the 15th inst. About 13,000 names have to be drawn.

Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal Hinks, has been superseded by the appointment of Maj. Dodge. Gen. Hinks goes to Harrisburgh, Penn. as Provost-Marshal and Military Commander.

Maine is to have two steam war vessels to defend her coast, and one of the iron-clads will make a special cruise in the Eastern States this Summer, going as far as Halifax.

It is reported that one-half of the rebel prisoners at Camp Morton, Indiana, refuse to be exchanged.

U. S. SENATE—EXTRA SESSION.

Standing Committees were appointed, the following being Chairmen: Mr. Sumner, of Foreign Relations; Mr. Wilson, of Military Affairs; Mr. Fessenden, of Finance; Mr. Grimes, of Naval Affairs; Mr. Chandler, of Commerce; Mr. Wade, of Territories; Mr. Collamer, of Post-office. Mr. Lane moved that the question be taken on the reception of the credentials of Mr. Snow, Senator from Arkansas. Mr. Harris opposed it. Mr. Lane wanted a vote. Mr. Grimes said they could resume the consideration of that question after referring the President's nominations. The Senate then went into executive session.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate yesterday, bills were reported favorably incorporating the Union Hotel Company; incorporating the Manhattan Fire Insurance Company; incorporating the New-York and Point Isabel Land and Emigration Company. Bills were noticed for the relief of Broadway by the construction of a railroad on parallel streets; to regulate the price of gas throughout the State; relative to the Court of Special Sessions in New-York. Bills were introduced incorporating the United States Petroleum Floating Storage Company; incorporating the Student Aid Association of the New-York Free Academy; incorporating the New-York City Law Societies. Bills were passed incorporating the Brooklyn Market Company; repealing the act to facilitate the closing up of disabled and insolvent Mutual Insurance Companies; also the Bank Enabling Act. At the evening session the Metropolitan Health bill was referred with power to report complete.

In the Assembly, bills were passed to continue the charter of the St. David's Society, New-York; to extend the charter of the Allaire Works, New-York; to amend the act establishing a permanent exterior line around New-York; to amend the charter of the Lorillard Fire Insurance Company of New-York; to extend the time for the completion of the Central Park Hotel, New-York; to extend the time for the completion of the Grand Hotel, New-York; to increase the fees of Hell Gate pilots.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The steamship Cuba brings three days' later intelligence from Europe. The late peace negotiations at Hampton Roads, and the shadowy hint by Mr. Seward that American arms might possibly find something to do beyond the lines of the United States, have excited a lively discussion in the columns of the English press. Strict neutrality is urgently advised by even the Times, while the propriety of looking to an increase of the military and naval power of Great Britain is a favorite text for leading editorials. The rebel organ in London, the Index, tauntingly adds that, "for the present, the army of Gen. Lee is the defence of Canada, but English statesmen ought to be aware by this time how very precarious is the duration of the war. A month or two might at any time suffice to settle the simple terms of peace, and if those months shall fall in the beginning of Winter, Canada would be at the mercy of Mr. Lincoln's Government and Gen. Sherman's army." It is reported that France has given the American Government the assurance that no Mexican territory has been ceded. The Tycoon of Japan has agreed to a convention with the English Ambassador, guaranteeing the free navigation of the inland seas of his empire, and allowing the establishment of an English Consulate at Simonasaki. Victor Emmanuel returned to Turin on the 23d ult., and was cordially received. The Austrian Minister of State is trying to force the lower house of the Legislature to stop talking, and vote upon the budget for 1865–66, but the Representatives send him word that they will discuss as long as they please. The Ducal Palace at Brunswick has been burned. Cardinal Wiseman's funeral was celebrated with great pomp in London on the 23d. At a reform meeting in London, composed of delegates from the various trades unions, a reform league was formed, upon the basis of manhood suffrage and vote by ballot.

GENERAL NEWS.

The grand effort to connect the Old and New Worlds by telegraph, by way of Behring's Straits, is now fairly commenced. On Tuesday the steamer Shubrick sailed from San Francisco for Sitka, or New-Archangel, in Russian-America, bearing the pioneer exploring company for the line. She will land a party at Victoria, whose business is to work up through the Frazer River region until they connect with the Russian-American branch. Thence they proceed through the unexplored regions between the regular Rocky Mountains and the Coast Range to the Youcan River, and so on to the neighborhood of Cape Prince of Wales. These cold and inhospitable regions are quite unknown, save from the dubious reports of the aborigines, and the reports of the lightning explorers' toils will have all the charm of history from a New World. The line now running from San Francisco through Oregon will soon be completed to New-Westminster, and by this connection we shall get frequent reports of the progress of the great work.

The State Committee of New-Hampshire has issued an address stating that under the direction of the Union County Committees of the State, the various Union Republican Clubs have made and returned a careful and complete canvass of the voters, and the result in all the counties has been transmitted to the State Committee. The aggregate result for the State is as follows; For Frederick Smyth, (Union,) 35,639; for Edward W. Harrington, (Dem.,) 32,718; doubtful or scattering, 1,572. This canvass is intended to be exclusive of soldiers who may vote in the field for Members of Congress, or who may return from the field to vote at home, and, dividing the doubtful voters equally, shows a clear majority of 2,921 for the Union ticket.

The Government has now over 20,000 bales of the captured Savannah cotton at the Quarantine Public Stores, Staten Island, ready for sale to third parties, or direct shipment to England on Treasury account. The present currency value of the cotton already landed is $6,500,000 or $7,000,000, equal to $3,250,000 or $3,500,000 in gold, to be drawn for on England, or returned in gold coin by the Government bankers in London. The arrivals of Government cotton since Monday are 9,000 bales, and the receipts by rail, &c., of other cotton, 3,000 bales.

Advices from the republic of San Salvador, announce that Don Francisco Duerias, who, for over a year, has been the Provisional President, has been elected Constitutional President of the republic. On entering office President Duerias delivered an address, in which he said that the vast majority which secured his election—forty-seven thousand against eighteen hundred votes—he interpreted as an approval of the policy he had hitherto pursued and to which he intended to adhere. He did not wish his people to expect too great things from him. He would eadeavor to maintain in the republic, peace, progress, and the majesty of the law.

A few days ago, the New-Jersey Assembly refused to indorse the Constitutional Amendment prohibiting slavery—every Democrat voting for slavery, and every Unionist for freedom. Yesterday, the Democracy, in order to prevent a reversal of their action, voted down the bill to extend the right of suffrage to soldiers with the army. Every Democrat voted that the soldiers should be disfranchised, while every Unionist voted to extend the high privilege to all who would be entitled to it at home. These facts show with remarkable plainness that the Democracy dare not trust their own men on the issue made by defeating the amendment.

There is little to add to previous accounts of the disaster on the Camden and Amboy Railroad. A Coroners jury is investigating the matter. One switchman swore that the trains were all behind time, but that the usual signals were displayed. Other witnesses testified that they saw no signals. The killed and fatally injured will probably number about ten.

The flood in the Ohio has reached its highest mark, and the water has commenced falling. The trains on the Ohio, Mississippi, Indianapolis and Cincinnati roads are suspended—the tracks being under water between Cincinnati and Lawrenceburgh.

Advices from Baker's Island say that the ship Mary L. Sutton went ashore Nov. 20, in a squall, and was a total loss. The Captain and crew were saved, and remain on the Island. The ship George Raynes, from New-York, has arrived at San Francisco.

Hon. Charles C. Nott, of New-York, appointed a Judge of the Court of Claims, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Judge Hughes, appeared on Monday and took his seat on the bench.

In the new arrangement of the Senate Committees, Mr. Saulsbury and Mr. McDougall have no places. Mr. Fessenden is Chairman of the Finance Committee.

LOCAL NEWS.

A very interesting entertainment was given last evening by the Sunday School of the State-street Congressional Church of Brooklyn, at the Academy of Music, which was quite a success. The entertainment consisted of singing, recitation, declamation and dialogue, the programme being most pleasingly gone through by the children of the school, upward of 400 of whom, boys and girls, were on the stage, beautifully dressed, and each bearing a miniature flag of the Union. The Academy was completely filled, parquet, boxes and galleries.

A meeting of ladies was held at Cooper Union yesterday to listen to addresses by Mrs. Hoge and Mrs. Livermore, of Chicago, in aid of the Northwestern Sanitary Fair, which is to be held at Chicago on the 1st of June.

There was much dullness in the Gold speculation yesterday, and considerable depression in the Railways. Government Stocks continued firm. Money in good supply at 7 ℔ cent.

The Rebel Outcry Against Jeff. Davis.

That ancient fire-eater, Robert Toombs, has been making a speech at Augusta, in fierce objurgation of Jeff Davis. He wound up in this fashion:

> "We must begin at the very root of the evil, and apply the true remedy. I am aware that this is delicate ground. A bad captain makes a bad company, and the same rule applies to those in high places. If they are incompetent or derelict, off with their heads—so much for Buckingham."

The old fate over again—Actæon devoured by his own hounds. Justice is fast getting its satisfaction over the arch-traitor even on his own sod. From all quarters of the "Confederacy," Jeff. Davis is now set upon. He is held responsible for all the calamities which have befallen the rebellion, and the passion against him is fast becoming a phrenzy. The rebel Congress which formerly did his will without a question has turned against him, and stripped him of his military power. The press, which formerly denounced the least whisper against his management as treason to the cause, now, with the exception of his paid organ, clamors against him without limit. Outside of his new Cabinet he finds no public man of any influence to defend him. In fact, denunciation of Jeff. Davis is fast becoming the same criterion of fidelity to the South that the laudation of him once was. The dominant sentiment now is that expressed by Gov. Brown in his ferocious, excoriating and revolutionary message to the Georgia Legislature, which was published in the Times of yesterday: "To support the policy of the President is the surest mode of diminishing our armies, exhausting our moneys, breaking the spirit of our people and driving them to despair."

What must make this all the more aggravating to the rebel chief, is its utter injustice in the premises. Jeff. Davis, by his treason, deservedly obtained the abhorrence and detestation of every loyal man. But traitors have no right to complain of him. He has served their cause well. He has displayed an energy, a fertility of resource, an organizing and administrative capacity, and a steadiness of determination, which has every way justified the unanimity with which they made him their chief. We, in the North, thought that eleven years' sight of the man in the National Senate and Cabinet, had enabled us to form a pretty good estimate of his abilities. But he has exhibited at Richmond powers never developed in Washington. Of course he cannot, and never will, be reckoned among the intellectual giants of the land. But that race seems to have pretty much died out everywhere, and in the South it has become utterly extinct. Yet Jeff. Davis, though no giant, stands head and shoulders above every other man in rebeldom. He has displayed a strength more than Southern. He has created means, and adapted means to ends, in a way no other man in that latitude could have done. Had any other rebel been in his place, there is every reason to believe that the Confederate concern would have gone under long ago. Mistakes, of course, he has committed; but the rebels ought to thank their stars that they have not been more numerous and more serious.

The simple fact is that Jeff. Davis has done nothing to bring the rebellion to this extremity. He has only retarded a fate that was absolutely inevitable. Governor Brown characterizes him as "the helmsman who is steering straight into the whirlpool, while our remonstrances are unheeded." The fool! to talk about steering, when half way down in the very suck of the maelstrom. It no longer is a question of steering but of keeping afloat at all. Governor Brown and all the small fry that stick to the rebel raft should be thankful for the few breaths they have, before it turns on end and shoots down into Erebus. They owe these last breaths to Jeff. Davis, and if they had any of the honor that prevails among thieves they would not spend them in railing at him. It is not only too late for any steering now, but, more than that, there never was a time when any steering could have saved them. It would have baffled Palinurus himself. The "Confederacy," from the start, had but two chances—the chance of such a division of the North that the Government would be crippled, and the chance of foreign intervention. Both of these alike were beyond rebel control. Apart from these two chances, the concern was doomed to destruction from the beginning. The question was not whether it would sink, but how long it would hold out. Right is stronger than Wrong; Faith is stronger than Perfidy; twenty-two millions are stronger than eight millions. The National Government had the superior strength, moral and physical; and such strength, in a fair field, is always sure to prevail. When it was settled that it would, in this case, have a fair field, the final issue was as fixed as fate.

The very causelessness of this rebel outcry against the management of Jeff. Davis, must make his soul writhe under it all the more. It must sting him to the quick that all his labors in the service of the rebellion, night and day, are repaid with such ingratitude by the very men who claim to speak in the name of the rebellion. It is a fit preliminary punishment for his monstrous guilt. Could some strange infatuation bring a lash from every rebel in the land upon the bare back of Jeff. Davis, in the name of their common cause, all loyalty would pronounce it the very acme of poetic justice. Since he cannot thus be served by rebel arms, it is well that rebel tongues are doing their worst.

The Celebration Committee—Wise, Timely and Patriotic Action.—It is understood that at the meeting of the Celebration Committee which takes place to-day, under the Presidency of Moses Taylor, Esq., the question of the draft and volunteer recruiting will be brought under consideration. It is reported in military quarters that we are to have barely one week's more grace before the conscription is put in force. But we are satisfied that if the committee over which Mr. Taylor presides are prepared to coöperate with the County Volunteer Committee, even but for one week, the progress of recruiting will be such as to insure us against a draft either now or at any future time. This, we know, is the general conviction of intelligent citizens. It is a conviction founded upon the experience of nearly four years ago, when our leading business men stepped forward as volunteer recruiting agents, and met the calls of the Government both for men and for means, with a patriotic zeal and alacrity which had never been paralleled probably in the history of any community in the world.

American Railways—The Disaster of Tuesday.

The shocking disaster of Monday night, or rather Tuesday morning, on the Camden and Amboy Railroad, has aroused public feeling to a greater degree than any of the innumerable railroad accidents that have occurred for many months past. The large number of killed and maimed, (between fifty and sixty,) the recklessness and negligence of the responsible parties, and the heartrending circumstances connected with the affair, have combined to stir up the whole community, and to give the matter a very personal interest to each one of the vast multitude which are ceaselessly in transit over this great thoroughfare.

We are satisfied that before very long the public will see the necessity of some vigorous and sweeping reform with regard to railroad management in the United States. The recklessness and indifference to the safety and comfort of the passengers which has long made traveling in this country a reproach and disgrace have reached a pitch, within the last year, which calls imperatively for interference from some quarter or other. Two or three accidents now occur every week, by which dozens of persons are killed or maimed; all pretence of regard for punctuality has been abandoned on most of the lines. Trains run one, two, and three hours behind their time on many roads as a regular thing. An inferior and cheaper class of persons is employed on many others to do work requiring the highest skill and capacity and character. Some of the companies, too, are great political organizations, taking an active part in electioneering, and dragging their employes and dependants to the polls like cattle, playing, in short, much the same rôle in our politics that Irish landlords play in those of Great Britain. All of them manifest the utmost contempt for public opinion. The remonstrances of passengers are met with insolence; appeals to the courts are foiled by liberal outlay in counsel fees, and all efforts to secure the interference of the State Legislature is met by wholesale corruption, or something which secures them often against even inquiry, and always against interference.

Thirty years ago there existed amongst the American people a wholesome and watchful jealousy of great corporations. There was a widespread and deeply-rooted feeling that their growth would prove dangerous to our liberties, and all attempts to establish them were viewed with almost as much suspicion as proposals to set up a monarchy or aristocracy would have been. Nevertheless, under cover of the railroad system, which supplied one of the greatest needs of the country, and to which we owe undoubtedly the larger part of our material development, these much dreaded institutions have gradually grown up into a power which overshadows society, overrules the legislature, defies the courts and the police, and smashes the citizens at pleasure. That greater alarm and indignation have not been long ago excited by their performances, has, in our opinion, been undoubtedly due to the general absorption of the public attention in the slavery controversy. One of the curses which that controversy has entailed on us has been the complete diversion of the mind of the nation from all questions of internal reform, whether social or political, during over a quarter of a century. And the result now is that while in the early part of this century we set an example to Europe in this respect, of late we have fallen behind it. If we take the matter of public conveyances alone, we shall find that in no civilized country, no matter what the form of government, is there to be witnessed anything approaching to the cynical indifference to the safety and comfort of the people, which is exhibited in the working of all our great monopolies.

What is the remedy? There can be very little doubt that had the growth of railroads as the great means of intercommunication been foreseen by the framers of the Constitution, their regulation would have been entrusted to the general Government. They play now, and are likely to play through all coming time a far more important part in binding the Union together than rivers or canals. They are our only post-roads; our great highways of travel, and during a considerable portion of the year the only means of transmitting goods in the Northern States. To commit such a machine to the charge of hundreds of corporations, each bent solely on realizing dividends out of it, and more than this, to secure these corporations against competition, was, it is now seen, or will, we predict, be seen, before very long, a fatal mistake. Congress ought to have the control of them, as it has of the post-roads, and as this State has of its canals. Through the State Legislatures, it is hardly necessary to say, they cannot be reached effectively.

The evils from which we are now suffering were long ago foreseen in Europe, and in many countries provided against at the outset. Probably a more unscrupulous horde of speculators were never let loose on the public than the first railroad companies that were established in England. They charged enormous prices; changed the fares from week to week; carried the third class passengers in open cattle wagons; and the officials were insolent in their demeanor. Accidents were numerous; opposition between competing lines ran high, but generally ending in a compromise and combination by which the public was cheated more egregiously than ever. At last the Government stepped in, and, in obedience to the great principle both of English jurisprudence and our own, that monopolies ought not to be granted solely for the benefit of individuals, instituted a rigid inquiry into the management of all the existing lines of railroad, and then passed the act known as the 7th and 8th Vict., Cap. 85. By this the companies were forced to run cheap trains, the right was reserved to the State of revising the charges of all lines, whose annual profits should thereafter reach ten per cent.; and though last, most important of all, the right was also reserved of purchasing from the companies all lines authorized in or after 1844, on the expiration of twenty-one years from their construction, on the payment to them of twenty-five times the amount of their average "clear annual divisible" profits during the preceding three years. The twenty-one years is now on the point of expiring, and the project is before Parliament of taking possession of all the railroads as the real "Queen's highways," and working them, either by leasing them out for short terms, or otherwise, as shall seem most conducive to the public safety, comfort and convenience. Similar powers have been reserved by the Government in France. At the expiration of ninety-nine years from 1852, all railroads revert to the State; in Prussia, at the expiration of thirty years; in several of the German States, the lines have been constructed and are owned by the Government. And we are satisfied that, as it becomes more clearly perceived that railroads are the true highways of modern times, the monstrosity of surrendering them as we do, as absolute property to commercial corporations, will be fully recognized.

The Situation Abroad.—The news from France received by the Cuba is altogether of a less oracular, and of a decidedly more satisfactory character than we have received for many months. The Emperor's Government has given assurance to our representative, that no cession has been made to France of Mexican territory, and that the transaction in the matter of the Northern provinces resolves itself simply into a lien on the product of certain mines. His explanation, accompanied as it is by a denial of any intention to recognize the "Confederacy," is said to have caused intense depression in all the rebel circles of Paris. Although there may be some reasons for not accepting in its literal sense every sort of assurance, even if it comes officially, from this quarter, still there could be no greater error than to foster suspicions against the bona fides of a foreign Power, which has, thus far, given us no cause for an open quarrel, and even less cause for protest and remonstrance, than certain others. It is better to believe that the Emperor's Government says what it means, and to avoid the foolish business of discounting difficulties which, under sagacious management, need have no existence.

The Reform Struggle in Russia.

In our American struggle against a barbarous aristocracy, we are in danger of forgetting the great contest which is still going on in a distant country, between the last relics of a feudal caste and the representative of the progressive ideas of this century. In Russia, the Emperor acts and speaks for the great democratic masses, and the struggle which the last century witnessed in France, between the governing power of Paris and the rural noblesse, is repeated now between the Czar and the country nobility of Poland and Russia. The act of emancipation there, as here, has nearly destroyed a class. The gentry are in many cases, stripped of immense wealth; the emancipated serfs often refuse to pay rents for property which they regard as their own; the legal prerogatives of the masters are taken away, and their great privilege of selecting recruits for the military service is abolished by a new system of conscription. Some find themselves owners of large tracts of lands, forests and mines, which are unimproved and without laborers to work upon them. Others are entirely beggared and all have lost their prestige and high position with the peasantry. To add to the discomfiture of the smaller gentry, the law providing for the admission of delegates to one of the Provincial Diets, that of Moscow, required a certain amount of property, which these persons are deprived of by the Act of Emancipation, so that, after much discussion, they have been necessarily excluded from their own Provincial Assembly. So far has this deprivation of the nobility proceeded, that the representative of one of the oldest families of the Russian aristocracy, and holding the office of Grand Chamberlain at court, Count Orloff, ventured to say in open Diet that soon "the Emperor will be not only the first but the only gentleman in Russia."

This bold epigram was received with much applause by the Assembly. Influenced by such sentiments, the Diet, while congratulating the Emperor on having indissolubly united Poland and Russia through this Provincial body, issue an address, urging the calling of a grand Representative Assembly from all Russia, of which the nobility shall form one Chamber, whose province it shall be especially to mediate between the Crown and the nation—an advisory body, and having a voice in taxation. They know the wants of the Russian Government, and that more money must be raised soon, and they hope thus to preserve the influence of an aristocracy, both with the Throne and the peasantry.

It is the last struggle of an aristocracy, against that tide which in all countries sets so steadily to a Democracy—whether governed by an Emperor as in France, or by representative bodies as in America. The French nobility are, so far as political influence is concerned, gone; the Russian are fast disappearing before the attacks of the Crown and the reforms of the nineteenth century; the American bastard aristocracy, resting like the Russian, on slaves, is in its dying and desperate struggles; the English high class alone remains, defying thus far by its immense wealth and through its political ability, the incessant assaults which the ideas of the nineteenth century, direct against it.

Russia is on a sure, steady career of progress and reform. With the new provincial bodies, and the spread of common schools and newspapers, (of which we hear such encouraging accounts,) she will soon educate a mass of intelligent and orderly citizens who will be fully capable of governing themselves.

The Seaports of the Confederacy.—We have practical evidence, from two widely-distant points, of the effect upon the fortunes of rebeldom of the capture of the last remaining ports of the South. The Richmond papers of Saturday announced the appointment of a special agent by Gen. Lee, to collect whatever in the shape of old muskets, swords, pikes, pistols and sabres could be found in any remnant of the Confederacy to which he might be able to find access. The steamer Cuba, with news ten days old from Europe, brought word last night that the "Confederate Government" have countermanded large orders for torpedoes. These incidents convey to the world, in a far more pointed form than any official bulletin, the information that the Confederacy is and has been dependent upon importation for arms to make good the large stock that has fallen by capture, at different times, into the hands of our armies. They likewise advertise the complete exclusion of the rebels from commercial intercourse with foreign ports. Torpedoes are no longer a marketable commodity in the Southern market, because they can find no port of entrance and no blockade-runners to take them even as speculative freight. All the British blockade-running ports, from Nova Scotia to New-Providence, are filled with enterprising craft, laden with Confederate ammunition and stores, but unable even to venture within sight of the coast-line of the Confederacy. And the "neutral" interest on both sides of the Atlantic is drooping and despondent to a degree which has no precedent in the history of this war.

Not less pointed than these facts are the latest official returns of the British Board of Trade. For the last-reported month there was a decline in exports of £2,258,963 sterling, as compared with the reports for the same month of the previous year. This doubtless comes in great part of the stoppage of all further Confederate orders for torpedoes, and other non-contraband articles of Southern commerce.

Democratic Information for the People.—The Constitutional Union, a Democratic journal published in Washington, in speaking of the Presidential inauguration, attaches significance to the "absence of Lord Lyons, Mr. Mercier, Mr. Barreda, Mr. Lisboa, Mr. Van Limbourg, Mr. Blondeel, and the Baron de Gerolt, the Ministers of England, France, Peru, Brazil, Holland, Belgium and Prussia."

Lord Lyons went to England last fall; M. Mercier has been at Madrid for a year; M. Barreda is now on a mission to France; M. Lisboa has been absent from the country more than a year; M. Blondeel went to Mexico in January; M. Van Limbourg and Baron Gerolt were present at the inauguration.

The Democratic organ also says that "the absence of Count Giorgi, the Austrian minister, is easily accounted for, on the ground of our probable difficulties with Mexico." Count Giorgi died in New-York last year.

And, to conclude, the legal representatives now in Washington of all the above nations attended the inaugural ceremonies.

Virginia and North Carolina on Arming Slaves.—There is something significant in the opposite views taken in the Legislatures of Virginia and North Carolina, on the question of arming the slaves. The Virginia Legislature resolves almost unanimously in favor of arming. The General Assembly of North Carolina petitions against putting negroes into the army without the consent of the States. Such is the report of the Richmond Sentinel of Monday. It is clear, we take it, from this, that North Carolina is not anxious to see the depleted ranks of the rebel army filled up at all. She has less to lose from the partial emancipation which Gen. Lee says must accompany a negro conscription, than has Virginia. The mass of the citizens of North Carolina are far less wedded to slavery as an institution, than the people of the rebel section of Virginia. The point is, that the latter believes Gen. Lee's declaration, when he urges that arming the negroes has become a necessity, if the South is to continue to fight; while the North Carolina Assembly apparently fails to see the necessity of continuing to fight, and, therefore, ignores, in a logical way, the other necessity—of arming the negroes.

Department of the East.

The Judge Advocate of this department, Maj. John A. Bolles, has gone to Boston on important business connected with the forthcoming courts-martial. Certain prominent navy contractors have recently come to grief, and will shortly come to trial.

THE CONDITION OF KENNEDY.

Capt. Kennedy, the hotel incendiary, is confined in the famous "Room No. One," at Fort Lafayette. This is no solitary confinement, but as the prisoners occupying this room are not allowed the freedom of the parade-ground, it is considered as a fit place for the more dangerous. The result of the court-martial in his case is not yet announced in orders, but we understand he was found guilty of the charges of spy and incendiary. Kennedy has admitted that he made the incendiary attempt at Barnum's Museum.

RETALIATION EXPECTED.

The belief has been expressed at headquarters that retaliation for the execution of Capt. Beall will certainly be made. If this is done it will involve the Government in a troublesome perplexity, as they can, of course, permit no harm to be visited on our prisoners, unavenged.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Emperor's Speech—The Missing Paragraph on American Affairs—A Conclave of Rebels in Paris—Fright on the Mexican Question—Probable End of the Olinda.

Paris, Friday, Feb. 24, 1865.

The great question of the moment in Government circles and at the Bourse is that of America, and, secondarily, that of Mexico. I will try and give you a correct outline of the situation, as it at present presents itself.

It appears to be certain that the speech of the Emperor from the throne contained, as late as on the morning before delivery, a paragraph declaring the intention of the Government to continue its policy of non-intervention in American affairs, and that the reception of the dispatch from New-York announcing the departure of Messrs. Lincoln and Seward to meet the Confederate Commissioners at Fortress Monroe, which was received and read by the Emperor an hour or so before the delivery of his speech, induced him to strike out from the speech all he had written on the subject of America.

Now the great question with everybody is, why did his Majesty suppress this paragraph? Was it because the prospect of union between the North and South threatened his Mexican schemes and rendered it necessary that he should not commit himself to the doctrine of non-intervention? Or was it simply that he had not time to rewrite the paragraph in language to suit him?

Many persons assume the first explanation, and with these persons there is a regular panic on the subject. When it was declared at the Bourse two or three days after the delivery of the Imperial speech, by persons of consequence, that there had been a suppression made in the speech on account of the news from America, there was a great fall in the Mexican bonds and a general fright among the politicians who occupy themselves specially in Mexican affairs.

So also the rebel agents took this view of the case, as it now appears, for there is a conclave of these gentlemen now sitting here, composed of Messrs. Slidell, Mason, Mann, Buchanan, Rost, and perhaps others, who are working with great energy, and, as I hear on all sides, with great hope, for a recognition of the Confederacy and an alliance with Maximilian. On one side I hear that they base their hope of a recognition on the threatening attitude of the North toward France, and on the other that they are trying to obtain an indirect recognition by the argument that as there was no election held in any of the States in rebellion, Mr. Lincoln can only be recognized as President of the States which voted at the election. But it is hardly to be supposed that gentlemen of the intelligence of those who form the present rebel conclave at Paris could be induced to compromise their reputation for common sense by a resort to such a very small specimen of pettifogging as this, for they must know that a great Government like that of France does not proceed in important affairs by such a tortuous, timid, sneaking route as this. It is not, therefore, probable that these gentlemen are seeking to obtain their recognition in this way.

The fright which has been produced on this Mexican business, however, continues, and is deeper than it has ever been at any time. The Constitutionnel, in order to quiet the alarm, has just published a long letter, which, it says, was written by a prominent banker of New-York to another at Paris, in which it is shown that even if the rebellion were terminated, it is a mistaken notion to suppose that there would be a large army ready to march into Mexico or Canada, for all these men would have acquired land and money, and would ask nothing better than to settle down to cultivate their lands and become respectable farmers. He says that the conditions between Europe and America are not the same, and that they ought not to be compared, for whereas in Europe, when a young man leaves home to go into the army, he finds on his return that his place has been filled up, while in America there is always a demand for workmen, and a liberated soldier can go to work where he pleases. He says also that it is an error to suppose that it is the policy of Mr. Lincoln or Mr. Seward to make war on foreign countries for the consolidation of the North and South, and warns his European correspondent not to pay too much attention to the excitation and the clamors of the American press. The appearance of this article in the columns of the Constitutionnel has made a sensation, for it is an argument on the Union side.

Mr. Seward's dispatches on the subject of Mexico are now being published here, and are attracting a great deal of attention. In fine, the situation on this Mexican question is in the highest degree delicate, and may at any moment become more so.

The Olinda, as I have already told you, will perhaps never leave the port she is now in as a rebel vessel. She has been found so unfit for sea that the rebels will be able to force M. Arman to take her back, and by this arrangement, everybody but her builder will be well satisfied.

GOSSIP FROM PARIS.

THE CESSION OF MEXICAN TERRITORY.

Correspondence of the London Times.

Paris, Thursday, Feb. 23—7 A. M.

It is affirmed that, besides the denial which appeared in the Moniteur of the rumored cession to France of a portion of the Mexican territory, assurances have been given to the American Government that no such cession has been made, and that the transaction consists of nothing more than a lien on the produce of certain mines until the expenses incurred by the French expedition are fully liquidated. I hear also that the report which attributed to the Emperor the design of soon recognizing the independence of the Confederate States is unfounded. It is denied by (French) official people; credited by very few, if any, of the Federals; and to their regret, disbelieved by Confederates. What may be passing in the recesses of the Imperial mind no one can say with anything like certainty, Ministers no more than anybody else. The Emperor is, it is true, somewhat partial to surprises, and may do that or anything else when least expected; but, for the present, the report of a recognition is but little credited.

With regard to the chance of the belligerents themselves soon coming to terms, either by the North recognizing the independence of the South, or the South returning to the Union—or, as the Southerners would term it, accepting their subjugation—it is extremely difficult to decide. Neither the Federals nor Confederates one meets with here seem to know what turn things may take any more than strangers. The North is still willing to offer what Northerners would call "magnanimous terms"—indeed, all short of independence; but the South make its independence a condition without which all else is little by comparison. There is certainly a longing desire on both sides for peace, but both express their conviction that the war must still go on—for how long or how short a time neither can say. The fact, however, of negotiations having been opened is looked upon as a favorable symptom. True, the negotiations have come to nothing, or are reported to have come to nothing; but, having once been attempted, and eminent men having conferred together, the opening of any future negotiations will be less difficult. On the whole, it seems that peace is much more desired on both sides than believed in for the present. Of course, I speak only of what passes here, and not of what may take place on the other side of the Atlantic.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

THE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

The London Times has a leader on the official communications in regard to the recent conference. It points significantly to Mr. Seward's confession that a combined effort at some extrinsic policy or scheme was deliberately considered, and says, that after this glimpse of American politics, Parliament may perhaps approach the army and navy estimates with greater resignation. The article winds up as follows:

"It must be conceded, however, that on its own showing the North comes the best out of this affair. It is not despondent, it is not doubtful of its own strength or resources, it is not prepared to concede a jot on the question of Union, nor even on that of slavery. It is still consistent, and, if not confident, is able to conceal its distrust. It has not entertained, or, at any rate, has not been the first to propose the expediency of a diversion in the direction of Canada or Mexico. That suggestion is alleged to have come from those who have already done their best to drag us and others into the war. On the other hand, though the Confederates have betrayed the sentiments of a losing side, they have not shown the slightest indication of any disposition to submit. They have reasserted their unalterable resolution to fight to the last, and by rejecting the proposal for arming their negroes, they have apparently proclaimed their unabated confidence in the ordinary sources of their military strength. Nor do the reports from the armies in the field appear uniformly or mainly unfavorable to their cause. Thomas and Sherman, it is true, are moving in strong force, the one upon Mobile and the other upon Columbia, without much prospect of effectual opposition; but Lee and his troops have once more inflicted a bloody repulse upon Grant, and a large Confederate army is reported as again preparing to invade Tennessee. On both sides, in short, the arbitrament of war has been accepted afresh, with fewer hopes of peace, and therefore with more desperate termination. We deplore the result, but it must be more evident than ever that neutrality, if we are but allowed to maintain it, is the only policy for England."

A REBEL VIEW.

The London Index—Confederate organ—continues its policy of attempting to frighten England into a recognition of the South. In its latest issue it remarks that for the present the army of Gen. Lee is the defence of Canada; but English statesmen ought to be aware by this time how very precarious is the duration of the war. A month or two might at any time suffice to settle the simple terms of peace, and, if those months should fall in the beginning of Winter, Canada would be at the mercy of Mr. Lincoln's Government and Gen. Sherman's army.

ORDERS FOR TORPEDOES COUNTERMANDED BY THE REBELS.

The Army and Navy Gazette says: "We are in a position to state that orders for large numbers of torpedoes have been countermanded by the Confederate Government, which looks like the abandonment of the sea coast line, harbors and rivers, or faith in some early cessation of hostilities."

PARLIAMENT.

THE HUDSON BAY COMPANY.

In the House of Lords on the 23d February, Lord Wharncliffe asked the Government what was the position of the question of the settlement of a crown colony in the northwest territory of British America, and when some report would be made to the House upon the subject. He stated that the territory between Upper Canada and the Rocky Mountains was at the present moment of great importance; and it was a matter of considerable interest to know what course was to be pursued with respect to it. Two methods had been proposed, namely: that the territory should be united to Canada, or erected into a separate colony. His own opinion was that it would be unwise to unite so large a tract of land, one so capable of improvement, to Canada, and that the best course would be to erect it into an independent settlement.

Earl Granville, in reply, stated that various proposals had been made by the Hudson Bay Company for the settlement of the Red River Territory, and counter proposals had also been made by Her Majesty's Government, but no arrangement had been concluded. Recently, a further proposal had been made by the Hudson Bay Company which had been sent to the Canadian Government, with a request that they would take immediate steps for defining the boundaries between their territory and that of the Hudson Bay Company. In the present state of the negotiations for the Confederation of the British American Provinces, it would be injudicious to decide anything with regard to the erection of the Red River settlement into an independent colony.

After a few words from the Earl of Airlie, the subject dropped.

THE CANADIAN FRONTIER.

In the House of Commons, on the 24th, Mr. Watkins asked whether any and what representations had been received from the American Government in reference to the passport system, and the other regulations, tending to non-intercourse, introduced by order of Mr. Seward, on the Canadian frontier.

Mr. Cardwell said the regulations in question were issued in view of the alarm which prevailed in reference to certain proceedings which took place on the frontier, and which entailed great inconvenience upon the Government of the United States. He had not entered into any correspondence on the subject, but he had hoped that as soon as the mischief ceased, the remedy would, also, be allowed to cease.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. Layard confirmed the statement that the Emperor of the French had been requested to mediate between Monte Video and Brazil.

A lengthy debate took place on the adoption of measures to check the decline of the population in Ireland, but no action was had.

FINANCIAL.

AMERICAN BONDS IN FRANKFORT.

From the London Times, (City Article,) Feb. 23.

The advices from Frankfort mention that the Bourse in that city has become the emporium for the business in American bonds, and that orders are pouring in from all parts, so that the dealings are almost every week on an increasing scale. The peace rumors sent the price up to 56, more than seven per cent. above New-York quotations, while the failure of the negotiations was so far counteracted by numerous orders from Berlin, Vienna, and Southern Germany, that after a fall to 52⅝ there was an immediate recovery to 54¾. The best securities of other kinds are parted with to enable investments to be made in these bonds, and it is remarked—"should the war continue for another year, and the Union prove unequal to the burden it will then have to bear, a desolation will come on this country which no French war, even the most unhappy, could have brought about." Large amounts of fresh stock have come in by the last steamers, and more are daily expected, but the effect on the market, it is thought, will be very small, as the speculation is supported by the low rate for money.

A PANIC IN EGYPT.

From the London Times, (City Article,) Feb. 24.

Advices from Egypt state that much alarm was created among all classes last week by the peace rumors from America, and the consequent fall in cotton. At no time in the year could a depreciation in the value of cotton have been more heavily felt by merchants in that country, since it is the period when holdings are large and transactions are in the greatest activity. The subsequent accounts, however, had restored confidence. At one moment the rate of exchange for three months' paper had been almost at par, all orders on cotton having been cancelled. It has since receded a little, and is now expected to go much lower, although, perhaps, not low enough to cause gold to flow in from Europe. The cotton crop in general, it is said, will be less considerable than anticipated, the amount being now estimated at about the same as that of last year.

GENERAL NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Board of Trade returns for the month of December and for the year 1864 are published. The exports for the month show a decrease as compared with December, 1863, of about two and a quarter millions sterling; but the returns for the year are £13,823,960 in excess of the preceding year.

The funeral of Cardinal Wiseman took place in London on the 23d ult., and was attended with great pomp. Many distinguished men took part in the proceedings, and the procession to the cemetery was three miles in length.

At a reform meeting in London, composed of delegates from the various trades unions, a reform league was formed, upon the basis of manhood suffrage and vote by ballot.

An attempted performance by the brothers Davenport at Leeds had again resulted in a row, and their cabinet was smashed to atoms.

FRANCE.

The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows an increase in the cash on hand of 17 million francs.

It is reported that M. Thiers, in order to prevent a split in the opposition, had consented not to speak upon the September Convention.

The Bourse on the 24th was firm, and Rentes advanced to 67.50.

ITALY.

King Victor Emmanuel returned to Turin on the 23d, and met with an enthusiastic reception. He subsequently received the National Guard and was loudly cheered.

AUSTRIA.

The Minister of State had addressed a letter to the Chairman of the Lower House of the Reichrath, stating that no representative of the Government will henceforth be present at the sitting of the committee until the Lower House has decided whether the vote on the Budget of 1865 and 1866 is to be taken upon the basis of an understanding between the House and the Government. Whereupon the Financial Committee of the Lower House made a declaration intended to maintain the rights of the national representation, stating that the note dispatched by Herr Von Schmerling to the chairman of the committee, will not prevent the continuation of the discussion of the budget as hitherto in detail.

GERMANY.

The Prussian Government had informed that of Austria the nature of the Prussian claims in reference to the Duchies.

An assembly from the political associations of Schleswig-Holstein was about to take place at Rendsburg, and the Prussian party was making great efforts in favor of resolutions for annexation to Prussia.

The Grand Ducal Palace at Brunswick has been destroyed by a fire which broke out during a court ball.

Canton, Saturday, Jan. 14.—Exchange 4s. 9d. Twist dull.

JAPAN.

A Shanghai telegram of Jan. 9 says: "Sir Rutherford Alcock returns to England by the present mail. He is the bearer of a convention with the Tycoon, guaranteeing free navigation in the inland seas. The convention further allows the establishment of an English Consulate at Simonosaki or Pachmont, and stipulates for the payment by Japan of an indemnity for the expedition up the Straits of Simonosaki. The relations with Japan are more satisfactory and improving."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

The funds on the 24th were without variation. Consols closed at 89⅛@89¼, with a dull tone.

The demand for discount was light, and in the open market good bills were taken at 4¾ per cent.

The weekly returns of the Bank of England exhibit an increase in the bullion of £46,363 sterling.

Amusements.

Academy of Music.—The fifth performance of "La Forza del Destino," attracted an exceedingly good house last evening, notwithstanding the filthy condition of the streets and the abominable state of the weather. The artists, by that strange but happy coincidence which always signalizes a bad night, sang with unusual spirit, and were all in excellent condition. The opera has rarely been heard to greater advantage, and seldom has it been received with greater favor. It is a pity that a success so marked and acceptable in every way should be interrupted by the necessities of the ending season. The expense and care that have been bestowed on this work would justify a run of an entire season in any European capital. It would have been reserved, too, for the opening of the season, not prodigally bestowed on the end of it, as by Mr. Maretzek.

Signor Bellini introduced, last evening, an exceedingly brilliant and effective cabaletta from "Arnoldo"—a quick movement, preferable, we think, to the one which occurs in "La Forza."

To-night, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, "Faust" will be given for the last time. On Friday, at the Fourteenth-street establishment, "La Forza del Destino" will also be played for the last time. On Saturday, at the Matinée, "Ernani," and in the evening, (at the Brooklyn Academy,) "Linda," for the benefit of Miss Kellogg.

Pianoforte Soirée.—Mr. J. N. Pattison will give his fifth pianoforte soirée at Steinway's rooms to-night, assisted by Madame de Lussan, and Signor Mongiardini. In illustrating the music of the olden times, Mr. Pattison uses the ancient spinnet, an instrument which will contrast strangely with the pianoforte of the present day.

Mr. Harry Sanderson.—This popular and talented gentleman will be the recipient of a grand concert at Irving Hall, on Saturday evening next. The entertainment will, of course, be most interesting. Mad. Van Zandt, Mrs. J. H. Barclay, Mr. Geo. Simpson, Mr. Frank A. Chase and Mr. G. W. Morgan will assist.

Niblo's Garden.—A distillation of Bulwer's Night and Morning is being given here with temperate, if not with teetotal, effect. It is in many respects not worse than the version heretofore given by Mr. John Brougham, but in the specialty of wordiness it penetrates more sturdily into the ancient and illimitable realms of dullness. People, however, abstain from it, and so it serves its purpose—being a lesson, if not a recreation. But for this we should feel ourselves called upon, for the twentieth time, to explain why Bulwer's novels, although most attractive to the hack dramatist, are the very hardest that he can essay to put on the stage. The performance of the "Beauforts"—for so the drama is called, owing, we suppose to prior copyrights—is generally small and inadequate. The only exceptions are in the cases of Messrs. Pope and Bandmann. The first-named gentleman is always good; the last-named, frequently so. In his principal scene, Mr. Pope left nothing to be desired. His idea of the part essayed was vigorous and picturesque; his interpretation of the text intelligent and distinct. Concerning Mr. Bandmann we must speak with more reserve. Until the end of the second act he was exceedingly hard and artificial; subsequently he became almost interesting. The gentleman's manner represents distinctly the conventionality of another stage, not the appreciable conventionality of our own, or even of Bulwer's novel. No man of our race, in the presence of a dead mother, ever rushed about the stage in the way that Mr. Bandmann does; no one ever cursed another in so semaphoric a manner. An English tragedian, of say the same eminence as Mr. Bandmann, would probably have howled; an American tragedian of about the like stamp would have gurgled, sobbed, choked, staggered and masticated an impalpable quid; a French artist would have stood—until the last hiccough—in the centre of the stage like a duck—first on one foot and then on the other—and finally have blasphemed and cursed in the presence and full consciousness of an exceedingly shiny black silk hat. Mr. Bandmann does not—to be sure—give way to the weakness of others, but he is not proof against the weaknesses of himself. All his motions are German and commonplace. It is only when he endues himself with decent clothes that he acts like a decent man. Poverty is not necessarily idiotic. It represents, unhappily, a type of life so common that it is barely eccentric. There is no reason why a poor man should wear his hair longer than any one else, or have his black clothes darned with white tape, to represent a series of impossible tears. In certain conditions of the pantaloons, too, it is a reckless prodigality and a shameful extravagance for a poor man to throw himself too frequently and too violently on his knees. Yet the hair, and the darns and the knees constitute Mr. Bandmann's best business, and are, so to speak, his entire stock of imported goods. We must confess that we prefer him in the latter sections, where a more valuable wardrobe brings with it a greater degree of prudence. He is, at the best of times, incapable of emotion. His voice is hard, ungenerous and hissing. With the view of softening it by the mere contrast of pitch, he has acquired an intolerable habit of producing sounds, from the lowest depths of his lungs, to the highest orifices of his face—a compass which is as extraordinary as it is disagreeable. These very defects secured the gentleman's success, a couple of years since, in Shylock, and shortly afterwards led to his failure in Hamlet. In the "Beauforts," he is so mediocre, that we can neither praise nor blame, as we did respectively in both these works.

Grand Combination Concert.—A grand combination concert will be given at the Academy of Music to-night for the benefit of "Disabled Soldiers and Soldiers' Widows and Orphans." It is under distinguished patronage, and will in every respect be a first rate entertainment. The artists are Mlle. De Katow, the Russian violoncellist; Mr. James M. Wehli, the great pianist; Miss Laura Harris, Mlle. de Gebele, and Signor Garibaldi. There will, we hope, be a full and remunerative attendance.

The Special Election Next Week in this State.—On Tuesday of next week, (March 14,) a special election is to be held throughout the State of New-York, to decide upon an amendment to the Constitution, to provide for the appointment of five Commissioners of Appeals. This amendment has passed through all the Legislative forms necessary, receiving affirmative action—two Legislatures deeming the amendment necessary—and now passes to the people for their approval or rejection. The object to be attained is to relieve the Calendar of the Court of Appeals, which, it is maintained, has become so crowded with cases as; in a measure, to be a denial of justice in that court. The relief is sought, if the amendment is adopted, through the appointment by the Governor and Senate of five Commissioners of Appeals, one of them to be the Chief Commissioner, who shall have power to hear and determine all appeals then pending in the Court of Appeals, which may be transferred to them by that court, and for this purpose the commissioners shall have all the general powers of a Court of Record. The clerk of the court of Appeals is to act as the clerk of the commissioners to be appointed. Judgment rendered by the commissioners is to be entered in the records of the Court of Appeals, and to have the same force and effect as if rendered by the Court of Appeals. They are to hold their offices until all the causes transferred to them shall have been heard and determined, but no longer than four years from the date of their original commission. Their pay will be the same as that of Judges of Appeals.

Very little interest has been manifested in the coming election; indeed, the people do not seem to be aware that such a circumstance is to transpire. We see it stated that no tickets are to be provided by the State authorities, and consequently the various political organizations will be looked to for the necessary ballots. The vote will be exceedingly light, as a matter of course.

Relief of Discharged and Disabled Soldiers.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

There are numbers of discharged and disabled soldiers in this city forced to beg; not an institution where by right they can get a meal of victuals or a night's lodging. The Soldiers' Relief Associations, at present organized, are for men in the service and in transit. The United States Sanitary Commission have nobly resolved to supply this want. At a meeting of the standing committee, held on February 24, they resolved to offer shelter and protection to this class of individuals, and use a part of their funds for that purpose. Will you again apprise the public of this fact, and request them to assist the Commission in their laudable endeavors to remove that stain upon our patriotism, viz: A man in Uncle Sam's uniform, forced to beg for bread.

NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES.

The NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES is published THIS MORNING, and may be had at the counter of the publication office, in wrappers, ready for mailing. Price Five Cents.

In addition to the latest intelligence by telegraph up to the moment of going to press, there will be found in the current number full details of all military movements in the different departments, from the pens of our special correspondents. Also, all official orders, reports and documents, and the latest and fullest Washington news. European news, with graphic letters from our correspondents in London and Paris, giving the tone of public feeling abroad, is made a special and permanent feature. In addition to Editorials on all the current topics of the day, the Weekly Times has a page of carefully prepared commercial matter, giving the latest financial news and market reports; items of agriculture and domestic interest, compiled from sources many of which are otherwise inaccessible to the American reader; and marriages and deaths of the week.

The "Weekly Record," or news summary—being a careful synopsis and digest of the news of the day, both rebellion and general—is alone worth double the subscription price to the paper, as it preserves in a condensed and conveniently classified form all news of interest, and must prove valuable as a record to all time.

The WEEKLY TIMES will be sent to subscribers in any part of the country on the following terms: One copy one year, $2; three copies one year, $5. Fresh names may at any time be added to Clubs, both of the Weekly and Semi-Weekly, at Club rates. Payments invariably in advance.

Dyspepsia and Fits.—A sure cure for these distressing complaints is now made known in a Treatise on Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by Dr. O. Phelps Brown. The prescription was furnished him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured everybody who has used it, never having failed in a single case. It is equally sure in cases of Fits as of Dyspepsia; and the ingredients may be found in any drug-store. Sent free to all on the receipt of five cents, to pre-pay postage. Address Dr. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 19 Grand-st., Jersey City, New-Jersey.

Dr. Lighthill can be consulted at his residence, No. 34 St. Mark's-place, (8th-st., between 2d and 3d avs.,) from 9 A. M. till 3 P. M., on

From the Washington, D. C., National Intelligencer.

At New-York City, on Monday, Feb. 27, Anna Maria, widow of the late Hon. Robert Le Roy Livingston, of Claverack, Columbia County, N. Y., in the 73d year of her age.

The announcement of the death of this venerable and most estimable lady will be received with sincere sorrow by many of the older residents of this part of the country, of which she was a native, where her youth, as well as much of her married life, was spent, and which she visited during many periods of her widowhood. She was a sister of the late Dudley Digges, of Prince George's County, and the early part of her life was passed at the family estate, known as "Warburton," on the east bank of the Potomac, in the neighborhood of Fort Washington. It is but a feeble tribute to her memory to say that she was conspicuous for the virtues which adorn the Christian character, and that she was sincerely beloved and respected by all who had the happiness to know her.

WASHINGTON IRON WORKS.

Newburgh, N. Y., March 3, 1865.

The destruction of our boiler-shop by fire, on the 1st inst., temporarily deranges our production of Portable Engines, but we are happy to be able to state that many of our boilermakers are again at work here, and that with the aid of other shops which are making boilers for us, we shall fill our orders for Portable Engines with nearly our usual promptness.

On the 12th inst. we shall have our facilities restored, and somewhat extended, so that we can meet almost any demand for engines that can be made upon us.

The lands of this company comprise 200 acres in fee, selected with care from the very best oil lands in Pleasant County, West Virginia, and lie within about 150 rods of the "famous wells" of Horse Neck and Rawson's Run, and about 3½ miles from the Ohio River. Many fine wells have recently been opened in close proximity to this property, producing from 50 to 100 barrels per day. A telegram just received reports another flowing well of 100 barrels near by. One well commenced by the superintendent lies in a direct line between two good wells just opened, not far distant.

Within a radius of three-fourths of a mile there are 20 producing wells, and more than that number in progress. Not a failure has yet been met with in this locality, every well being a success.

This land has a large amount of boring territory—enough for several hundred wells.

The company are now prepared to issue stock, at their office, No. 71 Broadway, Room No. 59, at the subscription price of $3 per share.

Prospectus, with map, can be had at the office of the company.

A competent superintendent is on the ground, and will push forward the work with the least possible delay.

PROPERTY IN VENANGO COUNTY, PA.,

Consisting of two hundred and thirty-eight acres of the best oil territory lying on Pithole Creek, Cherry Run, Maguire Run and Dun Run, near tide-out, in fee simple, and interests in the "Lady Washington," "Amazon," and "Colby" wells, and in a number of wells being put down.

Wells will be immediately sunk on the property held in fee simple by this company, and with the large working capital of $75,000 great results are anticipated.

The developed interests, as will be seen above in the "Lady Washington," the "Amazon" and the "Colby" wells, are already sufficient to enable the company to pay monthly dividends.

The company has been formed not as a matter of speculation, but to develop a property which, it is believed will prove to be of great value. The reputation of the gentlemen composing the Board of Trustees is a sufficient guarrantee that this object will be rapidly and faithfully carried out, and thus the stock will prove a most desirable and profitable investment.

Subscription Books for a limited number of shares are now open at the following offices:

The property of this company has been selected by practical judges of oil interests, and includes territory which is considered the very best in the whole oil region, embracing selections on Cherry Run, Pit-hole and Oil Creeks, and Alleghany River.

The producing interests are now yielding over one hundred and eighty barrels per day, principally from new wells, and this alone is sufficient to pay two per cent. per month on the entire capital, and with the developments to be made with the unusually large working capital, promises increased dividends at an early day.

FEE SIMPLE INTERESTS.

1.
150 acres D. Gaines Farm, on Horse Creek, laying nearly a mile on either side of the creek—an excellent piece of oil territory.

2.
20 acres Stuart's Run, all boring land on each side of the run, within a mile of the great U. S. Well, on Pit-hole Creek, McKinley Farm.

3.
85 acres Graham Farm, on Pit-hole Creek, one mile from the U. S. Co's well—over 50 acres fine boring land, one of the finest farms on the Creek, and not to be excelled for oil purposes.

4.
110 acres Skirk Farm, on Sugar Creek, two miles above Cooperstown, where heavy oil is found—a fine location, and a very long distance on the Creek.

5.
38 acres Fry farm, on Cherry Tree Run—all boring land, and full of streams—a splendid piece of oil territory, one mile from Cherry Tree.

6.
5 acres McClure Farm, on Cherry Run, lying one half mile above Plumer, which is very promising for oil purposes.

7.
250 acres Tidioute Creek, running one mile on the creek—100 acres fine boring land.

8.
30 acres Haworth Farm, on Pit-hole Creek—a beautiful site, all boring land, two miles above the great Well, and the property is believed to be fully as valuable as the Smith Farm on Cherry Run.

LEASEHOLD INTERESTS.

9.
¼ working interest in Lease No. 18, McClamont Farm, Cherry Run, on which there is a well now going down.

10.

LANDS IN FEE.

This company own in fee simple nearly 1,700 acres of land, located in Luzerne and Sullivan Counties, Pennsylvania, and Washington and Muskingum Counties, Ohio, heavily wooded and rich in bituminous coal. These properties are now worth more than $500,000, and are rapidly advancing in value; and at present rate of increase will double in value within six months, thus insuring a large profit to stockholders at once on their investment from this source alone.

LEASED PROPERTIES.

380 acres in lease located in the heart of the oil regions of Ohio, and now being worked with very superior prospects of a complete success. The company has introduced a new patent boring-machine upon these lands, and are enabled to sink a well in less than one-third the time and at one-third the cost required by other organizations. None of the leases are for a shorter period than ten years, and most are much longer.

Large bonuses can be taken for them, and are refused. Combining richness of estate, economy and accessibility to market, this company has no superior.

The property, embracing upward of 635 acres in different locations, has been selected with great care during the last three years by those of the directors who have been constantly operating on Oil Creek, and throughout the entire oil region of Pennsylvania, as well as Western Virginia, and was not selected to sell, but for the purpose of development and producing oil, having now some ten wells under contract, and being bored with vigor, beside those already completed and producing, making in all thirteen wells already on the property.

Every acre of the company's property is bottom and the best of boring land, much of it on Oil Creek, Cherry Run, Cherry Tree Run, Alleghany River, opposite Horse Creek, Sugar Creek, Elk Creek, and other streams where the lands are being rapidly developed with the most encouraging prospects.

The trustees feel confident they will be able to declare and continue handsome dividends shortly after the books close.

This company is organized under the laws of the State of New-York, with a capital of $500,000, divided into 50,000 shares, par value and subscription price $10 each.

DESCRIPTION.

The property of this company has been selected with great care, and is located in the most productive oil districts of Pennsylvania. It is designed to make this company a safe and sure paying investment, and an ample fund has been reserved for developing the land.

Shareholders are exempt from all personal liability.

The present receipts are sufficient to pay regular monthly dividends, and with the wells in progress, and those to be put down, promise large results at an early day.

PROPERTIES OF THE COMPANY.

LOT 1.
Fee simple of 106 acres, known as the Gordon Farm on Big Hickory Creek, lying on both sides of the creek, with nearly 40 acres of flat boring bottom. This is one of the finest locations on the whole creek, some three miles above the mouth, and near many wells in progress. The company will develop this land as soon as Spring opens.

LOT 2.
Lease of 20 years of one-half the oil on the tract known as the Wood's Saw-mill Flat, on Pit Hole Creek, embracing 27 leases, which are all flat bottom boring; land has been sold here at $10,000 per acre, and two wells are now partly down, just over the line, with flattering prospects. The company will develop this as soon as Spring may open.

LOT 3.
Lease of 20 years of one-half the oil of 45 leases on the Blanck Farm, on Pit Hole Creek, just above the great United States Well, now flowing 240 barrels per day. Wells will be put down at once by this company.

LOT 4.
Lease of 12 acres of the Barrett Farm, on Pit Hole Creek, all flat boring land, situated above the new well just struck by the United States Company. No better selection can be found on the whole creek for oil purposes.

LOT 5.
Lease of 14 years of one-half the oil of lease No. 34, Heydrick Farm, Henry Bend, Alleghany River, near the great Heydrick Well, which has turned out over 54,000 barrels; now pumping over 60 barrels daily.

LOT 6.
Lease of 14 years of one-half the oil in lease No. 40, same farm, on which a well is in progress, to be delivered in complete working order, with new engine, without expense to this company.

LOT 7.
Lease of 14 year of one-half the oil in lease No. 11, Henry Farm, on Pit Hole Run, a short distance from the Heydrick Well. A well is now in progress, to be delivered in complete order to this company free of expense.

LOT 8.
Lease of 14 years of one-half the oil in lease No. 20, same farm as above.

LOT 9.
One-sixteenth interest in the "Coquette" Well, on Oil Creek, now flowing by measurement lately taken 840 barrels per day, producing to this company 26 barrels daily.

The lands and possessions of this company are situated in the heart of the oil region of Venango County, Pennsylvania, and are, in brief, as follows:

FEE SIMPLE.

100 acres on both sides Tionesta Creek.

20 acres on both sides Stuart's Run.

Interests in a well on Smith Farm, PUMPING FORTY BARRELS PER DAY; in the new Balliete Well, FLOWING FORTY BARRELS PER DAY, AND INCREASING; in the famous Auburn Well, FLOWING SEVENTY BARRELS PER DAY; in the new Faunce Well, PUMPING FORTY BARRELS PER DAY; and in the celebrated New-Jersey Well, now FLOWING 250 PER DAY. Also, interests in FOUR WELLS NOW GOING DOWN, and the Company have commenced to sink WELLS ON THEIR OWN PROPERTY.

The incorporators design making this a permanent company, whose stock shall become an excellent investment rather than a mere means of speculation. Those among them having the largest financial interest in its affairs, will devote themselves personally to its management.

Its lands and wells will be constantly and thoroughly developed. Oil, and not stock, will be made the source of its revenue.

The subscription books for a limited number of shares of the stock of this company are now open at the office of the company, and at the office of either of the above-named trustees.

The property of this company consists of THREE THOUSAND ACRES of land in fee simple in Wirt and Ritchie Counties, West Virginia, on Dutchman Run and Hugh's River. This land is all paid for, and it is proposed to sell but 5,000 shares of the working capital, which is considered ample until a portion of the land is sold, for which there are many offers at a large advance upon cost.

There are a number of oil springs on the property, also coal and timber. There is but little doubt that productive wells can be had at from one hundred and fifty to two hundred feet, and will be at once commenced; and by the 1st of May large dividends will doubtless be realized.

Professor Richardson, who has examined the property, says: "The Dutchman Run property lies between the crystalised lode of Petroleum and the Burning Spring Oil region; that the crystalized Petroleum lode in itself is the most positive evidence that this vicinity is a supero oil-bearing region."

Reports and Prospectus can be had at our office, where the books are now open for subscription.

The object of the trustees is to render the company a great public benefit, by dividing its advantages among a large number of individuals.

They have bought and paid for a celebrated colliery in Schuylkill County, Penn., with the engines, machinery, breakers, shops, miners' houses, tools, cars, rail tracks, saw-mills and other personal property, and have denominated it the

PEOPLE'S MUTUAL COLLIERY.

Shareholders in the company will be entitled to one ton of coal annually at actual cost, for each share of stock held by them.

The surplus coal produced from the mines, after supplying the stockholders, will be sold at market rates, and the profits divided among the stockholders in semi-annual cash dividends.

Those who do not desire to receive the coal they may be entitled to, can, upon application to the company, have such coal sold for their particular benefit, and the profits thereon paid to them in addition to the regular semi-annual cash dividends. The coal will be delivered in the cities of New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Albany, Troy and other places on the lines of rivers and railroads, at the actual cost of mining, transportation and delivery.

LARGE CONSUMERS SUPPLIED BY THE CARGO.

Coal, at the present price, is one of the most expensive of necessaries, and the mutual system offers the only protection against the several profits charged between the mine and the consumer.

Let consumers unite and own their own Colliery.

To carry this idea into practical operation, the PEOPLE'S MUTUAL COAL COMPANY invites your subscriptions.

The Subscription Books are now open at the following places, viz.: At the Company's Office (new Marble Building,) No. 157 Broadway, first floor; WELLINGTON & COX, No. 74 Broad-st.; J. S. & W. BROWN, No. 52 Water-st.; CARR & BLANCHARD, No. 141 Front-st.; McKILLOP & SPRAGUE, No. 35 Park Row and No. 135 Nassau-st.; W. H. SACKETT, No. 49 State-st., Albany; Messrs. From the great success of this company they are enabled to offer superior advantages to policy holders.

Life policies are issued, payable in annual, or in one, five or ten annual instalments; also non-forfeiture endowment policies, payable in ten annual payments, which are paid at death, or on arriving at any particular age. Life insurance as an investment has no superior, as it has saved millions of dollars to the insured, and thousands of families from ruin. Dividends are paid to policy holders, thus enabling them to continue their policies, if otherwise unable to do so.

This favorable feature has been the means of saving many policies that would have been forfeited for want of means to continue them, and in several instances families, once wealthy, have thus been saved from utter ruin.

The office of the company has been removed to the new building, Nos. 156 and 158 Broadway, where their prospectus may be had on application.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 62 Franklin-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 61 Franklin-st. Call, send, or write.

MANHOOD AND THE VIGOR OF YOUTH regained in three days by Dr. POWERS' ESSENCE OF LIFE. This wonderful agent restores manhood to the most shattered constitutions, radically curing Seminal Weakness, Sexual Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Nervousness, Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from self-abuse, &c. The time required to cure the most inveterate case is one week. Failure is impossible. This life-restoring remedy should be taken by all about to marry, as its effects are permanent. Young man, are you subject to that soul and body destroying disease, secret habits? Dr. POWERS' Invigorating Essence is a never-failing cure. Sold by WALTER POWERS, M. D., No. 61 Franklin-st., between Broadway and Elm-st., New-York.

AFFLICTED RESTORED—IGNORANCE EXPOSED—FALLACIES UNMASKED.—Highly important to both sexes, married or single, in health or disease. Dr. LARMONT'S Paris, London and New-York Medical Adviser and Marriage Guide. 80th edition 400 pages, nearly 100 anatomical illustrations—upon debility, affections of the bladder and kidneys, sexual diseases, European hospital practice, the author's unequaled Paris and London treatment, &c. All should purchase this original work of the American News Company, No. 121 Nassau street, or the publisher, E. WARNER, No. 1 Vesey-st., for $1 00, or consult the doctor, No. 173 Broadway, up-stairs, New-York, from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. "We concur with other papers in recommending Dr. Larmont and his work."—Courier des Etats Unis, German die Reform, Dispatch, Staats Zeitung, Atlas, Medical Review.

A PHYSIOLOGICAL VIEW OF MARRIAGE —Containing nearly 300 pages and 150 fine plates and engravings of the anatomy of the sexual organs, in a state of health and disease, with a treatise on self-abuse, its deplorable consequences upon the mind and body, with the author's plan of treatment—the only rational and successful mode of cure, as shown by the report of cases treated. A truthful adviser to the married and those contemplating marriage, who entertain doubts of their physical condition. Sent, free of postage, to any address on receipt of 25 cents, in specie or postage stamps. Address Dr. LA CROIX, No. 31 Maiden-lane, Albany, N. Y.

DR. POWERS' PERIODICAL DROPS are designed for both married and single ladies, and are the very best thing known for the purpose, as they will bring on the monthly sickness in case of obstruction from any cause, and after all other remedies of the kind have been tried in vain. Expressly for obstinate cases. Warranted as represented in every respect, or the price will be refunded. ☞ Beware of imitations! Purchased directly of Dr. POWERS, 61 Franklin-st., N. Y.

IMPORTANT TO THE MARRIED.—DR. A. M. MAURICEAU, Professor of Diseases of Women, informs ladies that "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is for every lady, but more particularly intended for those whose health or circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family. Price $1. Sold at his office, No. 129 Liberty-st., and No. 1 Vesey-st.

EDWARD H. DIXON, M. D., EDITOR OF the SCALPEL, attends exclusively to operative surgery and the more obscure diseases of the pelvic viscera, stricture, hernia, hemorrhoids, varicocele and fistula. No. 42 5th av., between 10th and 11th sts. Office hours from 8 to 9, 1 to 3, and 7 to 9 evenings.

THOUSANDS ARE RUINED BEYOND REDEMPTION in this life by not calling on Dr. HUNTER sooner or later. He can cure the worst cases of secret disease in a shorter time than any other physician, or no pay taken. Skeptics and doubters will please call and read lots of reliable certificates of cures made within the last thirty years of almost hopeless cases, that had had the benefit of dozens of our most eminent physicians and surgeons. Dr. Hunter is in constant attendance from 8 in the morning till 9 at night, at his old office, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City, since 1834. Charges moderate and a cure guaranteed. Separate rooms, so that the patient sees no one but the Doctor himself. His wonderful medical discovery, DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures private diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, and possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. $2 per vial. Book, 50 pages, gratis.

MUSICAL.

CHICKERING & SONS

MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK's constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS are Sole Agents for the celebrated Alexandre Organs for the United States.

STEINWAY & SON

GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.

The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others is, that the firm is composed of five practical piano-forte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms Nos. 71 and 73 East 14th-st., between Union-square and Irving-place, New-York.

HAZLETON BROTHERS,

OVERSTRUNG, GRAND AND SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MANUFACTURERS.

GENERAL HINKS SUPERSEDED.

Progress of Recruiting — Explanation of the Bounty Law.

Orders were received yesterday from Gen. FRY to commence the draft in this city on Wednesday next, the 15th inst.; and in accordance with these orders, Assistant Adjt.-Gen. BRONSON, now acting as Provost-Marshal-General, has issued instructions to the district Provost-Marshals to be ready to proceed on the day appointed.

The slow progress of recruiting in the city is doubtless the cause of the orders for the draft being issued. Within the last seven days, one hundred and thirty men per day have been enlisted; but as there are 13,000 to be raised to fill the quota under the last call, it would take at this rate precisely one hundred days, or until the middle of May next, to raise the requisite number of men by voluntary enlistments. During the last two days, rather more than the average number of recruits have been obtained. On Tuesday 160 received the bounty, and of these the Volunteer Committee, at their office in the Park, enlisted 95, and at the Battery recruiting office 35—the remainder coming in from the various Provost-Marshal's offices. Yesterday, however, only about 100 men were received.

Gen. E. W. HINKS, Provost-Marshal-General of this district, has been superseded by the appointment of Major DODGE, of the Twelfth U. S. Infantry. Gen. HINKS has been appointed Provost-Marshal-General and Military Commander of Harrisburgh, Penn. Major DODGE is an officer of irreproachable character, who has won distinction during the present war.

The following circular, explanatory of sections 4 and 7 of the Bounty Law, was issued yesterday by Adjt.-Gen. IRVINE:

[Circular.]

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF NEW-YORK,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE.
ALBANY, March 8, 1865.

For the information of all concerned, and in answer to repeated applications to these headquarters for information, it is announced that sections 4 and 7 of the Bounty Law, passed Feb. 10, 1865, are construed as distinctly authorizing cities, towns and counties to raise money by tax, or by borrowing sums, to fill their respective quotas, limiting the amount to three hundred dollars for a volunteer or substitute for one year; four hundred dollars to a volunteer or substitute for two years; and six hundred dollars for a volunteer or substitute for three years; and the sum of not exceeding one hundred dollars for hand-money and incidental expenses for procuring each volunteer, such cities, towns and counties to be reimbursed out of the monies provided to be raised by Sec. 3 of the said act. WM. IRVINE, Adjutant-General.

WAR DEPARTMENT SPECIAL AGENCY.

Conflict of Authority—An Assistant Provost-Marshal Sent to the Old Capitol Prison—Removal of Col. Baker's Headquarters.

Col. BAKER learned, recently, that gross irregularities, if not outright frauds, had been tolerated in the Ninth District, under the Provost-Marshalship of Capt. DUNNING, and he accordingly sent thither a reconnoitering force of United States detective officers. The information which they gathered during their first essay assured the Colonel that the rumor which had reached him was well founded, and he bade his subordinates keep on the alert. One of the results of their further researches (which may now for the first time be printed) was the apprehension of one JACOB DEPEW, Assistant Provost-Marshal under Capt. DUNNING, for compounding a felony. It is alleged to have been DEPEW's practice to take bounty-jumpers and other prisoners from DUNNING's office, in Broadway, near Forty-seventh-street, and permit them to escape while on the route to Hart's Island or elsewhere, and he is supposed to have realized large profits from this source. The case on which he was arrested was clear—Col. BAKER's instructions to his force being that they shall clinch every necessary fact before undertaking to seize any person. They took the prisoner to the Astor House, and as he had in charge several prisoners that were to be taken to the Island, Col. BAKER released him on parole until 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the day of his arrest—Monday of last week. Promptly at 4 o'clock the Assistant Provost-Marshal reported at the War Department Special Agency, and demanded a view of the affidavits upon which he had been taken into custody. Col. BAKER exhibited the affidavits, and DEPEW, having read and revised the papers, desired to know what Col. BAKER intended to do in the premises. "Send you to Washington for trial, Sir," quietly responded the Colonel. "Perhaps not," was the rejoinder of Assistant Provost-Marshal DEPEW, as he unfolded the order from Maj.-Gen. DIX, absolutely forbidding the taking hence of any officer within the limits of the Department of the East. Col. BAKER released the prisoner on the instant, resolved that if he was thus to encounter, at the hands of a truly loyal and highly esteemed officer like Gen. DIX, the obstacles which beset his path in the beginning in this city, and which obstacles he had scattered to the winds, he would yield his position.

Col. BAKER comprehended the situation in which Gen. DIX had been placed. The General had looked upon the Government's Provost-Marshals in his department as men whose integrity was not for a moment to be doubted; and when DEPEW, during his parole on the day of his arrest hurried up to Broadway and Forty-seventh-street, and thence, with Provost-Marshal DUNNING, sought out Gen. DIX and represented DUNNING's case and his own in their own way, the General of course accepted their tale as truth, and readily thereupon wrote the order, forbidding any officer to take them out of the Department of the East. "Their case—not the case of DEPEW"—says Col. BAKER; for it is alleged, on strong affidavits, that Assistant Provost-Marshal DEPEW was not alone in his nefarious frauds, and it is moreover said that the special occasion of Provost-Marshal DUNNING's solicitude in DEPEW's behalf was precisely this: that he feared that his deputy, if confronted by a Washington jailor, might make undesirable revelations.

Col. BAKER wasted no time in communicating with the War Department, and on Monday morning, having had a personal interview with Secretary STANTON, he telegraphed an order for the rearrest of DEPEW, and on Monday afternoon the order was executed. In the meantime, the true state of the case had been revealed to Gen. DIX, and there being no opposition, DEPEW was sent off on Tuesday afternoon to the Old Capitol Prison.

Every day brings new faces into the offices of the Special Agency. Yesterday, the applicants for aid were mainly wives, mothers and widows, whom the bounty-brokerage thieves had defrauded of their relatives' bounties. One case is illustrative of hundreds, thus: Two months ago, Mrs. PETERS, of Williamsburgh, learned that her son had been spirited into the army through the agency of one CHAPMAN, a bounty-broker in the Eastern District of Brooklyn. The boy not having received the bounty which had been promised him, Mrs. PETERS applied for it, but was rudely thrust into the street without a dime of the money. In vain she appealed to the Provost-Marshal in her district; nothing could be done for her. At length she wrote Col. BAKER, and received a note inviting her to visit the Astor and make affidavit against the bounty-broker CHAPMAN. She complied with the polite request, and yesterday CHAPMAN's friends made it convenient to send $425 to the War Department Special Agency. This sum is to be given Mrs. PETERS this morning.

The TIMES is requested to say that Col. BAKER's headquarters has been removed from Room No. 32 Astor House to No. 54 William-street.

The Northwestern Sanitary Fair.

A meeting of ladies was held at Cooper Union yesterday afternoon, at which addresses were made by Mrs. HOGE and Mrs. LIVERMORE, in reference to the great Northwestern Sanitary Fair to be opened in Chicago on the 1st of June.

Rev. Dr. BELLOWS introduced the ladies in a few complimentary remarks. He said that over a year ago the ladies of Chicago started a sanitary fair for the benefit of the soldiers, which realized $80,000. It was followed by others throughout the principal cities of the North, some of which realized as much as a million of dollars. The ladies have now visited this city to solicit aid for the great Northwestern Fair, which is to close the series. In concluding, he spoke of the great commercial interest New-York has in the growth and prosperity of Chicago, and hoped there would be a liberal response to the appeal of the ladies.

Mrs. HOGE made a brief and interesting address, in which she said they intended to exceed all other fairs, and that in many respects it would be peculiar in its aspects. They had secured an acre of ground near Lake Michigan, on which commodious buildings are to be erected. They will also occupy the Soldiers' Rest and Home, a building four hundred feet long, which will be connected with the main building. The Monitor House will be a prominent feature of the fair. It will be a large amphitheatre, extending over the water, in which will be many small vessels. It is also proposed, as a part of the programme, to have a miniature sea-fight. There will be an Indian department, exhibiting the barbaric splendor of a race rapidly fading away. There will also be a New-England Kitchen, with its veritable spinning-wheel, which will come from the New-England States. The public schools throughout the Northwest will be made an auxiliary of the fair, three thousand of the pupils singing at a time under the leadership of an efficient teacher. It is expected that the President, Mrs. LINCOLN, Secretary STANTON, Admiral FARRAGUT and lady, Chief-Justice CHASE, and Mrs. Gov. SPRAGUE will be present at the opening. Mrs. S. A. DOUGLAS and Mrs. Gen. SHERMAN will have charge of the Roman Catholic department of the fair. The citizens of Philadelphia, the speaker said, have organized, and will have a department in the fair. In conclusion she paid an eloquent tribute to the self-sacrificing spirit of the people of the Northwest to the cause of the Union.

Mrs. LIVERMORE gave an interesting account of the Sanitary Fair at Dubuque.

It is probable that the ladies of this city will form a department for the fair.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE STORAGE OF PETROLEUM—THE GAS COMPANIES NOT TO BE PAID FOR UNLIGHTED LAMPS.

This Board met at 2 P. M. on Tuesday—Mr. JEREMIAH in the chair.

A communication was received from the Commissioners of Charities and Corrections, stating that in consequence of the increased cost of provisions, &c., they will require an additional appropriation of $100,000 for the use of the institutions under their charge during the present year. It was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. MCKNIGHT offered a resolution to the effect that the police be requested to report from time to time the number of public lamps remaining unlighted, and that the Comptroller be directed to make a deduction from the bills of the various gas companies for the time such lamps remain unlighted. It was referred to the Committee on Lamps and Gas.

A communication was received from the New-York People's Gas-light Company, offering to light the lamps in the City Hall Park for $30 per lamp per annum. It was referred to the Committee on Lamps and Gas.

The Committee on Ordinances presented a report and copy of an ordinance regulating the storage of petroleum and other inflammable oils within the city limits. The ordinance provides that neither refined nor crude oil, naphtha, benzine, &c., shall be stored within the city limits, except in quantities not exceeding five barrels of 45 gallons each, to be placed in cellars communicating with the public sewers. Retailers are not to keep on hand more than one barrel of the oil, to be stored in a cellar below the surface of the street. Refined oil to stand a fire test of 115 degrees, and crude oil a test of 140 degrees. Penalty for violation of the provisions of the ordinance, $500, the penalty, when recovered, to go to the Fire Department Fund.

The ordinance was laid over and ordered to be printed.

A resolution by Mr. GEDNEY to have the chamber of the board enlarged by taking in a portion of the corridor was laid over, and the Board adjourned to Thursday next.

Religious Liberty in Spanish America.

A large meeting was held in the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening, to listen to addresses by two Mexican priests who have renounced the Roman Church, and others, on the subject of "Religious Liberty in Spanish America."

Rev. Dr. LEAVITT presided, making a few introductory remarks. He said that fifty years ago thoughtful minds in this country took much interest in the movements toward freedom and independence in Spanish America—our Government acknowledging the independence of the Spanish American States, in 1822, in advance of all other nations. Recently our interest in that country has abated, owing to the absorbing nature of the politics of our own country, which at last resulted in the rebellion. He was thankful that the power of slavery was nearly at an end, while, at the same time, Popery was losing its influence in Spanish America. Now two reformed priests have come to us, who have begun a revolution within the Roman Church in that country, which, with the aid of the free circulation of the Word of God, has fair prospects of eventual success. It was their duty to aid them, and it was an honor to Brooklyn that the first public demonstration in aid of the new movement was held in that city. He hoped the people would respond liberally to the call.

Dr. LEAVITT said the two gentlemen would address the meeting in Spanish, not understanding English, and that their remarks would be interpreted by Mr. RILEY.

JUAN FRANCISCO DOMINQUEZ and JUAN NEP. ENRIQUEZ ORESTES, then made brief addresses, favorably impressing the audience by the earnestness of their manner.

Mr. RILEY translated their speeches, from which it appeared that, as early as 1854, several clergymen met in the City of Mexico, and after reading the Bible, became enlightened, and resolved to renounce the Catholic religion and its heresies. At present there are a hundred reformed priests in that country, who have met with much opposition and persecution, but who still remain firm to the Protestant faith. Since the beginning of the late war with France, the speakers have been driven from Mexico. They now propose to remain in this country until peace shall be restored to Mexico, when they hope to return and continue the work of evangelization.

Rev. Mr. DWIGHT said that these Mexican brethren are the first representatives of the Spanish race who have ever asked the coöperation of a North American audience to aid them in carrying forward an evangelizing work among the twenty millions of Spanish-speaking people on the American continent. We have unaccountably overlooked their welfare for a quarter of a century. The United States of Colombia is the only South American State where the Protestant Church has gained an ascendency over papal power. In Mexico the conflict is still going on, aided by a foreign Power, but will probably be of short duration. The speaker said that the gentlemen present could do much for the extension of truth by the distribution and translation of works for the nations of Spanish America.

Rev. Dr. EELS was called upon, and made a few remarks. He said that any one familiar with the [illegible] that our intercourse with Spanish America is to assume, cannot but be struck with the deep interest of the subject brought before them. There is a wide field there that we ought to occupy.

Brief addresses were made by Rev. Mr. HATFIELD and Dr. THOMAS, when a liberal contribution was taken up.

The meeting was then dismissed with the benediction.

Commissioners of Emigration.

IMPORTATION OF CONVICTS.

At a meeting of the Commissioners of Emigration, yesterday, Mr. VERPLANCK in the chair, a resolution was adopted directing the General Agent to notify the District-Attorney to take measures against the captains and owners of vessels bringing convicts to this port.

A memorial to the Commissioners of the Land Office was adopted, asking them to pay their share of indebtedness on the real estate of the Commissioners of Emigration, amounting to $200,000.

The Committee on the Emigrant Depot recommended to the Board that contracts be made with the New-York Central, Pennsylvania Central and Erie Railroads, for the transportation of emigrants to the West, and the transportation of baggage through the city. The report was accepted, and the committee were directed to make the necessary contracts.

The Board then adjourned.

Address of the Workingmen's Association to President Lincoln.

A few days ago the Workingmen's Association of this city adopted a resolution requesting Mr. DAVID S. CODDINGTON to address President LINCOLN a congratulatory letter in their behalf, on his inauguration and the progress of events. Mr. CODDINGTON accordingly transmitted such a letter to Mr. LINCOLN, which, after reviewing the course adopted by the President since his accession to power, and touching upon the various political questions of the day, concludes by saying, in respect to the rebellion:

"The contest, though unfinished, is no longer uncertain. CALHOUN's grave is in our possession. His theory is under the feet of our armed heroes. What peace shall parole the captured doctrine? As workingmen, respectfully but manfully addressing the master-worker, this association bid you God speed."

Go Thou and Do Likewise.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your paper of yesterday, your reporter relates a case of a policeman paying the internal revenue tax in the Seventh Tax District in this city. As the case is so imperfectly stated, I feel that a correct account would afford useful information to the patrolmen of the force, and I hope you will publish it for their guidance and the Government's benefit. "I waited on the assessor unasked, stated that my income for the years 1862 and '63 was $800 per year, and that I paid $120 house (not horse) rent; and as the Government allowed me $600 per year, and house-rent untaxed, I owed the Government, tax on $80 for each year. This, including the war-tax of 1863, amounted to $8,80 for the two years, which I paid, and felt good in doing it."

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE CITIZEN.—This journal, which was established some months since, under the auspices of the Citizens' Association, having for its special aim the promotion and advancement of the vast material interests of this city, came to us last week in an enlarged form, full of evidence of ability in its editorial conduct, and very handsome in its typographical appearance. Its discussions of all topics bearing upon good government, public morals and the vital necessities of municipal reform, are thorough and practical, while the miscellaneous departments of current literary and art news, and domestic and foreign matters, are prepared with great care and excellent taste, making it take rank at once as a first-class family journal. The chosen field of the Citizen's labor is one which requires faithful and earnest workers, such as the proprietors promise to be, and their efforts should receive the hearty countenance of all persons who have at heart the best interests of the city.

PERSONAL.—Among the promotions recently confirmed by the Senate was that of Lieut.-Col. JAMES F. HALL, First New-York Volunteer Engineers, to the rank of Brevet Brigadier-General. The advancement of Gen. HALL will afford sincere pleasure to his numerous friends in this city and in the army, and is no more than a just recognition of his eminent services from the beginning of the war. Serving almost entirely in the Department of the South, Gen. HALL has, without exception, won the good opinion of every general officer who has been in command, and his promotion was strongly urged by Maj.-Gens. Gillmore, Terry, Hunter, Wilson, and Foster, and Brig.-Gens. Seymour and Benham. Gen. HALL bore a conspicuous part in the siege of Fort Pulaski, and behaved very gallantly on the unfortunate field of Olustee, Fla., while his record in a dozen other operations that form the history of the Department of the South fully attests his valor and efficiency.

A GERMAN COUPLE ACCUSED OF BURGLARY.—SIMON MEINZER, butcher, and his wife, JUDITH MEINZER, of No. 227 William-street, were arrested by Officers HORBELT and MULLEN, of the Fourth-ward, on complaint of their neighbors, ERNST RUTTER and wife, of No. 227½ William-street, accusing them of stealing $1,055 in English gold and $780 in Treasury notes. RUTTER and wife went to a ball on Monday night, and on their return found their money chest in the rear of their abode, where it had been forced, and as MEINZER and wife were the only persons who knew where their treasure had been kept, suspicion fell on them. The officer found in MEINZER's shop a piece of steel on which were paint and splinters from the chest. Justice HOGAN required the accused to find $5,000 bail, and this was given by a friend who believes them innocent.

CONCERT IN AID OF THE BATTERY BARRACKS RELIEF ASSOCIATION.—The Board of Officers of the Twenty-second Regiment N. G. S. N. Y. are to give a concert at their armory in Fourteenth-street, on the 18th instant, in aid of the Battery Barracks Relief Association, of which Mrs. CLAYTON NEWBOLD is President.

FIRE IN CHATHAM-STREET.—Mr. MICHAEL KERRIGAN's clothing store, at No. 159 Chatham-street, was damaged to the amount of about $1,000 by fire and water, at about 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. KERRIGAN is fully insured in the Rutgers, Hamilton, and Citizens' offices.

THE OVERLAND MAIL.—The Overland Mail, after two months' suspension, resumed its daily trips yesterday.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Entertainment of the State-street Congregational Sunday School.

A concert and exhibition were given last evening at the Academy of Music, for the Sunday School of the State-street Congregational Church of Brooklyn, which proved to be an entire success. The getting up was neat, the programme most pleasantly gone through, and the Academy was filled from parquet to roof-tree. On the stage, the children, numbering some 400, boys and girls, occupied seats. The white dresses of the latter, over which were worn red scarfs and red hoods, and each child holding a miniature flag of the Union, formed a very beautiful scene.

The entertainment was opened with prayer by the Rev. NEWTON HESTON, pastor of the church. The programme embraced singing, dialogue, recitation, and declamation. "Labor is Worship," was delivered by Master CHARLES F. CHICHESTER, with much judgment. "The Bird of Beauty," was sweetly given by the pretty and interesting ELLA THOMPSON. Miss IDA FRANCIS sang with great pathos, "Thou art so Near and yet so Far." The duet, "Music on the Wave," was nicely given by the Misses DAVIS. There was an amusing dialogue, by seven young ladies, representing in a highly interesting manner the struggle between the North and South, secession being personated by a young lady with a black cat in her arms, who complained that her neighbors and household, (the people of the North) wanted to pull her cat's tail and otherwise ill-use her feline pet, which caused her to leave them. Around the seven ladies were other ladies representing the several loyal States, each bearing aloft the Stars and Stripes. The young representative of secession, (too handsome to represent so naughty a thing), with her black cat is finally overwhelmed, (though standing up gallantly to the last,) the scene closing amid the enthusiastic applause of the vast audience.

The [illegible] polka (a whistling solo) was given or whistled by ANNIE (daughter of Judge) BOERUM, amid a good deal of fun. EFFIE PARKHURST, MARY EDWARDS and FLORENCE REYNOLDS also performed their parts well. The entertainment was interspersed with many humorous illusions to current topics—petroleum, the draft, &c., coming in for their share of the hits. Mr. S. O. DYER presided at the piano, the music being under the direction of Mr. D. P. HORTON.

THE CASE OF YATES.—The General Term of the Supreme Court, now in session, has affirmed the judgment and conviction of THEODORE YATES for the murder of CHARLES CURRAN, and the Court of Oyer and Terminer is ordered to carry the execution into effect. The culprit is to expiate his crime on the gallows on Friday, the 24th inst., in the yard of the Kings County Jail.

THE DRAFT.—The following dispatch has been received in Brooklyn:

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 7.

I am authorized by Gen. FRY to say that drafted men will not be called upon so long as the Board of Enrollment of both Districts are fully occupied in examining volunteers to fill the quota.

M. F. ODELL.

TO BE RE-SENTENCED.—IGNATZ RATSKY, convicted of the murder of SIGISMUND FELLNER, is to be brought before the Kings County Court of Oyer and Terminer on Monday next for re-sentence. His case has been before the Court of Appeals, and decided adverse to a new trial.

THE FIFTY-SIXTH REGIMENT.—This regiment, commanded by Col. J. Q. ADAMS, decided at a recent meeting to offer their services to the Government for one year. If accepted as a regiment, they expect to be counted in the quota of Kings County.

FILLING THE QUOTA.—In the Provost-Marshal's office of the Second District, Tuesday, 28 men were sworn into the service. This is in excess of the Government demand, which is only 25.

NEW-JERSEY.

LARGE BOUNTIES OFFERED BY JERSEY CITY.—At the meeting of the Common Council of Jersey City yesterday, Mayor CLEVELAND sent in the following communication in reference to increasing the bounties, with a view of relieving the drafted men:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
JERSEY CITY, March 7, 1865.

To the Honorable the Common Council:

GENTLEMEN: As it now seems probable that a law will be effected and the city be able to pay cash for recruits, and as Provost-Marshal MILLS has agreed that drafted men shall be released whenever the quota of any ward is filled by volunteers or substitutes, provided such quota shall be filled before it shall be necessary to take the drafted men into the service, it seems to me desirable that your Honorable Body should authorize your Committee on Enlistments to pay a bounty in cash not exceeding $650 for one year's men, and $750 for two year's men, and $850 for three years. It is not intended that these bounties shall be paid by the committee, unless, at the last moment, it shall appear to be actually necessary in order to free our men from the draft. One of the wards in Newark is offering now $600, cash, for one year. The City of Newark itself is paying $300 in county scrip, and $250 in cash, making $550; and I am informed that towns in our own county have already paid as high as $600 for one year. The recommendation now made is not to offer an average bounty as high as we paid for a part of the men on the last call, yet it is more than I should propose to the committee to offer at present; but by giving this discretion to the committee, special meetings of the Common Council may be avoided. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ORESTES CLEVELAND.

Alderman GAFNEY offered the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That the Committee on Enlistments be authorized to offer such bounties as they may deem expedient, not to exceed $650 for one year's men, $750 for two years' men, and $850 for three years' men.

Criminal Business.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russel.

John Williams was placed upon trial, yesterday morning, on an indictment for grand larceny. The complainant, being sworn, testified that he was the keeper of an oyster-saloon in James-street, and that the prisoner was one of his lodgers; his only reason for suspecting the prisoner was that the stolen goods, consisting of a suit of clothes, a silk necktie and a pair of suspenders, disappeared on the same day that Williams did; Williams came back nine days afterward, and made a call on the complainant, but the clothes and the suspenders never returned.

Officer GAYNOR, who arrested the accused, testified that no property was found upon him that the complainant could identify.

There was clearly no evidence against the man in the opinion of the court, and the jury found him not guilty.

Henry Howard was tried as a receiver of stolen goods. The indictment alleged that prisoner had in his possession one dozen forks, knowing them to have been stolen.

Mr Albert Goodenough, a hardward dealer in Beekman-street, testified that he lost a package of ivory-handled table cutlery on the 20th of February last, and that a boy named Thomas Conway, employed in his store to do up packages, admitted that he had stolen them and sold them to the prisoner.

Thomas Conway testified that he had been employed by Mr. Goodenough, and that on the 20th of February last he stole a package of knives which he sold to the prisoner. Howard told him not to take enough at a time to get himself into trouble, but to bring him all he could get and he would buy them of him. He first met Howard at a minstrel saloon in the Bowery, and delivered the goods to him at a place in Greene-street known as "Laura's."

Charles Williams testified that he was present at the negotiations between the prisoner and the boy Conway; Howard told Conway he would get him a coat with leather pockets, so that the knives would not show.

Sergt. Quinn, of the Sixth Precinct, testified that he arrested the accused and took him to the station-house, where he stated that he knew he was doing wrong in buying these goods, but that he would buy anything to make a dollar.

Capt. Courdan, of the First Precinct, testified that his attention was called to the fact that these boys were selling knives, and he had them arrested; on information derived from the boys, he arrested Howard; prisoner said at the station-house that he knew he had been doing wrong. The goods were found in several pawnbrokers' shops, and recovered. The case was sumitted to the jury under the charge of His Honor, and the result was a prompt verdict of guilty. Howard was then called up, and sentenced to be confined in the State Prison for five years.

Anna Maria Ziefle, a domestic servant in the employ of Mr. George Their, plead guilty to grand larceny. The indictment charges this woman with stealing $950 worth of property from her employer. She was sent to the State Prison for two years.

Joseph Brennan plead guilty of an indictment for petit larceny, and was remanded.

John Tierney plead guilty to burglary in the third degree, in breaking into the livery-stable of George Geary and stealing a jack-knife. He was remanded for sentence, and the court adjourned.

The Liability of Railroad Companies for the Negligence of their Employes.

COMMON PLEAS—PART I.

Before Judge Brady and a Jury.

Patrick Sheridan vs. The Hudson River Railroad Company.—This action was brought against the company to recover the sum of $10,000 damages, which the plaintiff alleges he sustained by reason of the negligence of a brakeman in the employ of the company. The facts are as follows:

In the early part of September, 1861, a train, consisting of fourteen freight and two passenger cars, was running down in the daytime from Poughkeepsie. When it arrived in the vicinity of Eleventh-avenue and Thirty eighth-street, a large number of boys climbed upon the platforms of the freight cars, and among them was the son of the plaintiff, Francis J. Sheridan, aged about seven years. A man who was acting as brakeman on the car, without notice to the boy, seized hold of him and thrust him off, while the car was going at a slow rate of speed. He fell from the front platform on the track, and the wheels passed over his legs and some other parts of his person. He was so badly injured that for a time his life was despaired of. He finally recovered, but will be a cripple for life. The case was tried in the same court some time ago, but owing to the absence of some material witnesses, the plaintiff then failed to substantiate his claim, and with the permission of the Judge presiding, a juror was withdrawn. The legal question involved was, the extent to which a railroad employe, acting in the capacity of a brakeman, can make the company liable for acts of negligence. Upon a motion made by defendant's counsel for a non-suit, the court decided that there was sufficient testimony given to permit him to send the case to the jury. The case is still on.

The New-York Express Suit.

COMMON PLEAS.

Before Judge Daly.

Clark vs. Brooks et al.—A motion was made in this case on the part of the Messrs. Brooks, defendants, to stay all of the plaintiff's proceedings until a decision shall have been made on the appeal which has been taken to the General Term. The motion was strongly opposed by the plaintiff, on the ground that it had already been decided that he (plaintiff) had a right to a share in the profits of the journal known as the Express; also, that he was entitled to an accounting, and after such accounting he had a right to have the entire establishment sold. His interests, he maintained, should be protected by an immediate sale. The Express would now sell for more than when these proceedings were commenced. On the part of the defendants it was urged that a reference to take an account would be a needless expense, inasmuch as the books of the concern were always open to the inspection of the plaintiff. If the General Term should reverse the verdict, then all these subsequent proceedings would be a nullity. The Judge took the papers and said he would give a decision in a few days.

Supreme Court Decisions.

Before Justice Leonard.

Cunningham vs. Conover, counsel fee of $75 to each of three counsel allowed; Morris vs. Storer et al, and Sylvester vs. Huttinger, motions are denied; The Park Bank vs. B. W. Tilton et al., an allowance of $75 is ordered; Austin vs. Seixas, the motion for judgment is granted; Wm. B. Duncorst et al. vs. Thomas O'Neill et al., the motion made for a commission is granted; George Widmeyer vs. Mary Fish et al., Wm. Riversmith vs. E. B. Groves (two cases;) N. Cromer vs. C. Bowers et al., motions are granted; H. M. Baldwin et al. vs. Samuel J. Frith, the motion is granted, but without a stay of proceedings; J. A. C. Gray vs. C. Schenck et al., the motion is denied without costs.

The Validity of a Bill of Sale.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Mullen.

Homer Morgan vs. Alfred F. Thorn.—The action was brought by plaintiff to recover some household property in the house No 112 East Sixteenth-street. The house and some of the furniture therein were owned by a Mrs. Webb. The latter being unable to pay the amount of a mortgage due to plaintiff, and in order to secure the same, it is alleged she transferred the property in dispute to him. The defendant was a sub-tenant in the house, and Mrs. Webb, the ostensible owner of the goods subsequent to the transfer of plaintiff, executed a bill of sale to the defendant's wife. There was much conflict in the testimony, but the question of law involved was as to the validity of this bill of sale to defendant's wife, and also whether a sufficient demand had been made. The case was tried before the court without a jury, and the decision is reserved. For plaintiff, Mr. Sherman; for defendant, Mr. J. D. Moneil.

Action for Damages for Non-Delivery of Goods After Sale.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Before Judge McCunn and a Jury.

Chas. O'Neill vs. Theron Losee.—On the 6th of July, 1864, the plaintiff purchased of defendant 1 500 barrels of flour at the stipulated price of $11 per barrel. The flour was to be delivered on or before the 19th of that month. The transaction was conducted through a broker, who gave to plaintiff the usual memorandum in such cases. A few days after, and before the delivery was completed, flour rose rapidly in value. The result was that defendant refused to comply with his portion of the agreement. The plaintiff claims, that by reason of his non-compliance he, plaintiff, has been damaged to the extent of $1,875. Upon the conclusion of the testimony, the court charged the jury that the question for them to decide was, what was the rise in the market value of flour between the 9th and the 19th of July? They were entitled to regard the highest price in coming to their decision. The jury had not agreed when the court adjourned. For plaintiff, Mr. Byrne; for defendant, Mr. B. W. Bonney.

A DRAFT THREATENED!

Will the Citizens of New York aid in Arresting such a Calamity?—The Assistant Provost-Marshal-General Calls upon Them! The County Volunteer Committee Appeals to Them!—Ten Days Allowed to Increase Recruiting!—Over Thirteen Thousand Men yet to be Raised!

The County Committee on Volunteering call the attention of every citizen to the letter appended hereto, from Brig.-Gen. HINKS, A. A. P. M. General and Superintendent of Recruiting Service, relative to the number of recruits now being raised in this county, and the prospect of a draft.

The Committee have exhausted all means at their command for raising men. They have paid the largest bounties permitted by the laws of the State, or paid in any portion of the State. They have succeeded in recruiting over one hundred men (100) men per day; within the last seven (7) days they have averaged about one hundred and thirty (130) men per day, and within seventeen (17) days they have reduced the number of men to be raised nearly two thousand (2,000.)

But there are yet more than thirteen thousand (13,000) men to be raised to fill the quota of this county, and to raise this number within a reasonable time, requires not one hundred men but two hundred men per day at least.

While the committee and the Board of Supervisors, from which they derive their power, have individually and collectively given their whole time and attention to this work, it is to be regretted that the people of the county, who will suffer by the draft, have been lukewarm, and have rendered the committee no considerable assistance.

Even capitalists, who have most to fear from a draft, have been unwilling to aid to the extent of furnishing the necessary means to pay the men raised. The fund for paying volunteers is now nearly exhausted, and even one hundred men per day can no longer be paid unless moneyed men and institutions subscribe the necessary funds.

The committee, in justice to themselves and the public, now make this statement, and appeal to the people to so increase the number of recruits during the ten days' grace allowed us that it will be reduced to a certainty that the quota can be filled within a reasonable time.

To avoid a draft two things are necessary:

1st. That the bonds of the county for the purpose of paying volunteers be taken immediately; and

2d. That the people at once lend their aid to the work of raising volunteers.

Especially, let every citizen who has the means provide himself with a substitute. He will thus exempt himself from draft and help to fill the quota of the county. Substitutes can now be obtained at comparatively small cost, the State undertaking to reimburse all those who pay money for this purpose, to the extent of $600 for a three-years' substitute, $400 for a two-years' substitute, and $300 for a one-year substitute.

Those who subscribe to the Volunteer Loan Fund have not only the pledge of the faith and property of the county, but the additional security that the State will reimburse to the county the money thus expended.

It now remains with the people to avert the threatened calamity of a draft. Let them take the matter in hand. Let them assemble together in public council, and after determining the best means to be pursued, put those means into immediate execution. With the coöperation of the press, and the active aid of the people, the committee hope, within the prescribed ten days, to give satisfactory evidence that more men will be procured by volunteering than can possibly be obtained by draft.

LETTER OF BRIG.-GEN. HINKS.

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 2d instant, in reply to a note of Capt. BRONSON, A. A. G., written by my direction, in relation to the progress of recruiting in this county, and have perused with interest the elaborate array of statistics which it contains, exhibiting the comparative progress of recruiting in the City and County of New-York, under the present and previous calls for troops; but its examination has not changed or modified my convictions that "the present rate of recruiting will not fill the quotas of the city districts within the time required."

It will be borne in mind that very great deficiencies, as compared with other districts in this city, exist in all the city districts, and that these deficiencies exist entirely for the reason that New-York has been less actively or less successfully engaged in actual recruiting than the suburban districts. The draft has already commenced in all districts surrounding the city, and to further postpone its operations here, unless there is a prospect of the quotas being immediately filled by voluntary enlistments, would be an obvious injustice to those districts in which the application of the provisions of the law is now being made.

Furthermore, it will be remembered that the previous quotas of the city districts have been filled, to a very great extent, with credits resulting from enlistments in the navy not made since the assignment of quotas under the Enrollment Law, and not contained in your exhibit of the progress of recruiting under those calls. Hence the comparison made in your communication has no application to the results in filling the quotas, which now must be done by actual enlistments.

It was hoped that the postponement of the draft in this city would produce, on the part of its citizens, some effort commensurate with the amount of labor to be done to secure the filling of the quotas by volunteer enlistments, thereby speedily reinforcing our active victorious armies with some sixteen thousand volunteers, and thus removing the necessity for a recourse to the operations of a draft on the part of the Government.

To secure this result every means of coöperation and assistance consistent with the interests of the service has, whenever suggested, been willingly adopted by the Provost-Marshal-General and by the office; but after trial it seems that these hopes are not well grounded, for while yourself and a few persons have labored faithfully and efficiently to produce the desired result, the expectation of a general interest being aroused, and an active effort being made on the part of the whole community, has not been realized, and instead of any indication being apparent that the quotas will be speedily filled, there is presented the conclusive evidence of your own figures that at the present rate of recruiting the quota will not be filled till the 1st of August next.

I know of no means by which the number of men raised can be increased, except the people, who have the greatest interest at issue, shall by their efforts give recruiting such an impetus as they only can create. Every consideration of patriotism and interest appeals to them to put their hands to the work. The beneficent and liberal provisions of the State law by which every person who secures a substitute before the draft will receive six hundred, four hundred or three hundred dollars' bounty, for three, two or one year's service of such substitute, respectively, while a drafted man may receive but two hundred and fifty dollars, either for himself or his substitute, ought of itself to make every able bodied person who is liable to draft an active recruiting agent, while the large bounty paid by the State, in addition to the Government bounty, ought to induce all those who are not liable to the draft to enter or reënter the service and assist in the grand concluding campaigns of the war.

In reply, however, to your concluding remarks, I would suggest that means be adopted to give the greatest possible publicity to the necessity of immediately raising men more rapidly, and to the liberal provisions of the State Government made for volunteers and substitutes, and that the people of the city be appealed to through the public press, and, if practicable, through public meetings, to devote one week to their country and their own personal interests in labor to secure the filling the quotas of their districts, and thereby relieve themselves from the evils of a draft. To this end every facility will be extended from this department. Mustering officers and surgeons shall be provided in abundance; and that a fair test may be made, I think I may promise that no draft shall take place during the next ten days.

I am, Sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
EDWARD W. HINKS, Brigadier-General,
A. A. Provost-Marshal-General,
Superintendent Volunteer Recruiting Service.
